TURNED ON THE GAS.

How Hellman Murdered His Wife and Children.

Chicago, July 5.-Frederick Hellman, a mason contractor, thirty-six years old, last night murdered his wife and four children by asphyxiation, and died with them. The victims were: Ida Hellman, thirty-four years old; Fritz Hellman, twelve years old; Ida Hellman, eleven years old, Willie Hellman, eight years oid, and Hedwig Hellman, four years old. The place of the tragedy was at the Hell-man cottage, 601 Cornelia street. The house is small, but it was their own, and the family was supposed to be living happily together.

That the murder was deliberately planned by the father of the family during the past few weeks seems beyond doubt. Ever since Hellman built his house it has been supplied with gas pipes, but there has been no connection with the gas mains and there were no fixtures in the house. Beveral weeks ago he had his pipes connected and fixtures put in the family bedroom only, the entire family sleeping in one small

It seems now certain that Hellman had the gas put in for the express purpose of using it in the murder of his family. The gas was turned on after the family, excepting the husband, had gone to sleep, and none regained consciousness. The body of Hellman showed evidence of a struggle. He first shut the door and windows, then turned on the yas and lay down to die with his family.

There is only one explanation, and that is that Hellman was crazy. He is said to have been fairly well provided with worldly goods and to have had no family dissensions. He was naturally of a morose disposition, but no one thought he would commit suicide or murder. He left a note for his brother, in which he gave instructions regarding the disposition of his property. He said that he would not be living when the note was received, but said in it nothing of the premeditated death of the rest of the family.

ONE OF THE DALTONS ARRESTED. He Has a Bad Record and Is Proud

Knoxville, Tenn., July 5.—(Special.)—C. C. Dalton is about thirty-five years old and is in the last stages of consumption. On April 20th he was in the employ of a farmer in Vernon county, from whom he stole a horse and rode it to Jefferson county, Tennersee, in thirty-two days. Here he was wanted for committing murder fifteen years ago. When about to be arrested here he stole one of his father's horses and rode it to death, getting to Arkansas. He was arrested by the Tennessee officers two to await the arrival of the Missouri officer. While here he said that he was proud of his record with the famous gang, and told of several raids in which he had figured.

NO GAMBLING IN SARATOGA.

Even Cale Mitchell Has To Close His Well-Known Place. Saratoga, N. Y., July 5 .- Every gambling

place in this village closed today. The result was brought about by Village President Sturgis, who appeared before the pokee commissioners and said:

"I absolutely command and demand of you, as president of the village, backed up by the trustees of this village, to close every gambling place in Saratoga without reserve and if you fail to obey I shall cite you before the board of trustees and ask for your resignations."

The first place to close was the old Morrissey Club. Mr. Canfield appeared at police headquarters and stated that he would close for good and that they need not take the trouble to send an officer down for the purpose. Ex-President of the village. Caleb W. Mitchell, quietly followed suit. The situation is the main topic of conversation about town.

WOOL AND IRON PRICES IMPROVED A Stiff Advance in Iron Which Has Caught

Mills with Orders Ahead-Semi-Annual Dividends Being Paid Out.

New York, July 5.—Bradstreet's tomorrow

"There are 197 business failures reported throughout the United States this week, as compared with 215 last week, 164 in the first week of July, 1894, 319 in 1893 and 152 in the like week of 1892.

"Total business failures in the Dominion of Canada number 25 this week against 28 last week, 69 in the week one year ago and 26 two years ago.

"Notwithstanding the week is broken by a holiday, favorable trade conditions heretofore reported continue to exercise a pronounced influence, prominently general advances in prices and in prices of staples and in wages of industrial employes. The extent of the voluntary advances in wages reported within a month or two has outgrown the resources of voluntary statistical bureaus which have endeavored to keep track of the latest advices, being that more than one million industrial workers have received an advance averaging about 10 per cent.

"The upward tendency of prices, while not as marked as a month ago, is still striking, because of additional advances; those of lumber, tin plate and print cloths being new. Cotton goods are firm generally on the late advance in raw cotton; al-though some varieties are quiet at this, the mid-summer season. Fancy prints are active for fall delivery. Wool, which was late in starting in the race for higher quotations, is quoted at another advance for South American and Australian varie-ties. Prices at London sales are up 10 ties. Prices at London sales are up 10 or 15 points, which, having been more than discounted here, induces the trade to anticipate reaction unless London quotations advance further. Cotton also is higher as is leather, following which we have a repetition of the announcement made each week for more than a month that quotations for pig iron and steel billets have advanced. To this must be added a similar statement in respect to bar iron.

"Among the list of staples for which prices are lower are flour, wheat, corn and oats, in all instances the outcome of reports of improved crop conditions. Pork and lard are also lower, as are potatoes and

"No material improvement is reported from the south, rains continuing to be damaging to agricultural interests and to check business in Texas, while at the south Atlantic and gulf state cities the quiet movement of staple goods and fair or unsatisfactory collections of the past month or two continue. But advices from nearly all cities reported appear to agree that wholesale dealers in hearly all lines are greatly encouraged as to the outlook for business during autumn, believing that the demand will be greatly stimulated by the very general, and, as it is now believed, permanent improvement in prices." Dun & Co.'s Review

R. G. Dun & Co., in their weekly review of trade tomorrow, will say:
"There were 6,657 commercial failures in the first half of 1895 against 7,039 in the of 1894, and 6,401 in the first half These commercial failures involved liabilities of $88,839,944 this year, against $101,739,306 last year, and $168,864,444

"The details show a decrease in every class of failures in the second, compared with the first half of 1895, both in the number and magnitude, the defaulting liabilities averaging $34 against $40 for every firm in business, and $3.04 against, $4.03 for every $1,000 solvent payments.

"The mid-summer reports from all com-mercial centers are of especial interest, covering the questions on which the future business depends. They indicate distinct-ly better crop prospects than other official commercial accounts, a marked increase in retail distribution of products, an active demand for goods, and a general enlargement of the working force, with se advance in the wages of more than half a million hands. At the same time they show that the rapid advance in prices has somewhat checked buying of a few classes of products. In every part of the country outlook for fall trade is considered "Nothing disturbs the money market, the government begins the new fiscal year with more than the required gold reserve, and the disbursement of nearly $30,000,000 by corporations in interest and dividends will stimulate business in many branches. "The advance in iron continues and the Thomas company has raised anthracite No. 1 another $1 per ton. Comparison of prices for various iron products show an advance ranging from 72.2 per cent since February for wire nails to 7.1 per cent for anthracite pig and in all kinds averaging 22 per cent. The demand and rise ne so suddenly that, even while the first order for shipment of steel billets to Europe given some time ago, when prices were low, is being announced, the price here has advanced from $17, in April, to $22.25, or about 31 per cent."

As the Marblehead passed the Mercantile harbor the garrison made their appearance on the mole and fired a salute, while warships in the harbor hoisted the American flag, together with the national ensign. The Marblehead replied with a salute of twenty-one guns and ran up a Russian flag, which act of courtesy was answered by the garrison by hoisting the stars and stripes. Officers of the Russian warship then went on board the Marblehead and formally and cordially welcomed the Americans. Later Commander welcomed the Americans. Mississippians at Washington Are Going Home To Work for Gold. Washington, July 5.—Governor Sims, first assistant secretary of the interior department, left Washington last night for a three weeks' vacation at his home, Columbus, Miss. While away Governor Sims will take a survey of the political field in Mississippi and especially in regard to the senat contest in the selection of a successor to Senator George, who voluntarily retires at the end of his present term. Senator George is said to be contemplating writing a book on constitutional law, upon which subject he is a recognized authority.

The news from Mississippi is worrying the administration immensely. Great dependence was put in Governor Stone and the letters which be and President Cleveland exchanged recently were expected to turn the tide for gold. The Atlanta Constitution's publication that every county which has acted so far has gone for silver has made the Mississippi cuckoos very uneasy up here: Their perches are getting exceedingly hot and uncomfortable for them. One by one they will fly down to their state to see if something can yet be done to wheel Mississippl into the goldbug column.

Routine of the Meeting. Last night's meeting was called for 8 o'clock and promptly at that hour the hall was fairly well filled with the friends of silver, numbering some of the leading citizens of Atlapta. It was a few minutes after 8 o'clock that the meeting was called to order, and by this time every seat in the Chamber of Commerce was taken.

Mr. Clark Howell arose and in a brief talk stated the purposes of the meeting. He stated that the convention had been called in a simple and informal manner; that there had been no regularly organized movement in this direction, but that it was intended to bring representative sliver men of Fulton county together for the purpose of selecting delegates to the state silver convention to be held in Griffin July 18th. He declared that it was something more than encouraging to see so many enthusiastic worker for the cause of silver present and bespok successful business meeting. Closing his remarks Mr. Howell moved that Mr. John C. Whitner be elected chairman of the meeting and that Mr. John Holleman be made secretary. This motion was carried and Mr. Whitner called the meeting to order. Mr. Whitner's Speech.

In doing so Mr. Whitner made a very catchy speech which abounded in forceful declarations of his faith in the cause of "I have never had much to do with politics in my life," said Mr. Whitner, "and have seldom attended political meetings of any kind, but this was one meetings of any kind, but this was one meeting which, although informally called, I could not stay away from. I asked somebody today who had called the meeting and my reply was 'no matter if only one man in this world called it, that's enough to take you there.'

"I came because of my intense interest in the question." he resumed. "I believe that the question," he resumed. "I believe that this country is in peril if something can't be done and done quickly for the restoration of silver as a standard money metal for this republic. I believe there is much for us to do. I believe from the appearance of this meeting that we have not met in vain tonight, and that we can start the ball rolling here that will roll on and do good for the cause of the people of this country. cause of the people of this country."
Loud applause followed the speech of Mr,

Whitner.

Mr. J. H. Goldsmith moved that the same officers who had been selected for temporary service be chosen for permanent officers.

This was carried.

A Committee To Get To Work. Captain E. P. Howell moved that a com-nittee be appointed to select delegates to the Griffin convention and to map out the the Griffin convention and to map out the business before the meeting.

This was carried and the following committee was appointed: Captain Howell, Mr. J. H. Goldsmith, Captain W. M. Bray, Mr. H. L. Johnson, Mr. D. N. Sanders, Colonel Robert L. Rodgers, Colonel A. J. McBride, Mr. R. A. Broyles and Mr. James O'Neill.

These retired to the side room and began their work. In the meantime an adjournment or recess was taken.

The Committee Reports. The Committee Reports.

It was five or ten minutes before the committee appeared again in the hall. Captain Howell, as chairman, made report that nothing had been done except to name the delegates that are to go to Griffin to the convention of bimetallists, July 18th, and called upon the secretary to read the names suggested. The names as mentioned above were read except those of the committee itself, which were afterwards added upon the motion of Mr. James Austin, the well-known attorney. The committee's report was received with enthirtastic applause.

It was adopted without a single dissenting voice and the main business of the meeting was thus easily disposed of by the friends of bimetallism.

Enthusiastic Speeches Made. Somebody suggested as this was the only matter of business to be transacted that there be several speeches. The idea took, and there were immediate calls for Hon. James O'Neill, the well-known member of the Cleangle legislature for Fulton.

James O'Neill, the well-known member of the Georgia legislature from Fulton. Just at this time it was noticed that sev-eral other well-known Georgians from a dis-tance had entered the hall, Hon. Hal Lewis, of Greene; Hon. Hut Jenkins, chairman of the general judiciary committee of the house of representatives of the state legislature, and Hon. Joe Turner, principal keeper of the state penitentiary. They were applauded as they appeared and walked across the hall to find seats. The calls for Hon. James O'Neill were re-newed and he arose and said that he did not think that this was the time to talk. "We have met here simply for the purpose of selecting delegates to the Griffin convention," to say, however, that I am fully in spirit with this movement and believe we can do much for the cause we believe in by having this large delegation at Griffin. The Griffin convention will be heard from and then will be time enough to talk."

Captain Howell Talks.

Captain Howell Talks.

There were repeated calls for Captain E. P. Howell, who spoke entsusiastically along the line of the meeting.

"It isn't worth while to lose any powder here. Let's wait until we are going into the battle," said he as he arose. "But the quicker we get together and gets into the fight the better. (Applause.) The goldbugs are threatening us every day. They are fight the better. (Applause.) The goldbugs are threatening us every day. They are making threats that unless we cease agitating this issue we shall have no money at all. Why, I had a letter from some of them the other day saying unless we quit agitating the silver question in the south the exposition would be seriously damaged.

"I don't see what they are kicking about—what ground they have to kick, so long as they say there's nothing in our claims. Somehow we seem to be hurting them. But we are not after them. only after settling the question that means the salvation of the people of this country the salvation of the people of this country from the grasp of the money power. That's all. We are like the little boy when his mamma told him to quit pulling the cat's tail. We aim't pulling we are simply holding the tail and they're doing the pulling. (Laughter and applause.) Oh, gontigmen, it hurts them.

"Now I have been studying the condition of the people of this country about fifty-five years and I want to say that I have never seen the people suffering as I now observe them. The past few years have seen women and children proving in have seen women and children working in the fields like mere slaves for a living. I have seen mechanics who had to sell their tools for bread and ment for their families. And yet we have more cotton, more corn, more iron more minerals—everything is plentiful except work by which honest men can make a living. "The cause is plain to see. The legis-lative powers have put the hoarded money where it can earn more than the scattered ney-than the labor of the land. Here's an illustration: Suppose some legislative power would sey to the butchers of At-lanta, you shall not sell beef nor pork. You shall sell only mutton, Why, don't you know that within a few days mutton would get so high that nobody could buy it ex-cept the rich and the laborers would go to starvation for the lack of something to sustain them. Well, it's the same way with gold. It is the same way with taking gold as the single money standard and throwing silver to the winds as an out-

He said that he always did get excited when he dis-cussed the silver question, and for this reason begged to be excused, which was done regretfully by the crowds, who laughed at the point of his humor.

Mr. Clark Howell was called on and made a speech reviewing the situation as if is. He'said he didn't think it was necessary at this time for words, but declared him-self strongly in favor of the restoration of silver to its full power as a money metal.

"I was talking with a goldbug friend of mine today and he said that all this trouble came on us because of the siver question. Well, then, why is it, I would ask, that the trouble was not felt until the Snerman act was repealed? (Applause.) Why is it that the trouble has been felt from that day to this? Why is it that the trouble is increasing every day of the world? Whi is it that the tax valuation of this coun try went down last year $500,000,000; that the tax valuations of the southern states went down $100,000,000; that the tax valua-tions of the central and western states went down $200,000,000, and that the only re-gions that sustained their tax valuations were those particular regions that are the money centers of this country?" (Much arrelause)

Mr. Howell continued in this strain and reviewed the outcome of this brief period of the single gold standard regime. He brought to bear many astounding figures along this line. applause.)

Mr. Andrews Spenks. Mr. A. Andrews Spenks.

Mr. H. A. Andrews who lately came to Atlanta in charge of the city public crematories, was called on. He arose and stated that, although he was a republican, and while he may not be in close line with some of his party on the financial question, he felt at home when he had heard such stirring speeches there in that company in end the poor pcorer. (Applause.) The poor people cannot pay their debts. No people are happy under the workings of this sort of financial system—I mean of course the of this sort great masses of the people. Those who hold the money and who lend it are the ones who get rich. "How did this silver demonetization ever come about? Why, in the shrewdest of ways. It was put in the general appropriabill in the national congress-done it the dark. Fifty-seven of the congressmen declared they never knew it was in the bill. Thus it was choked on the people of this country. Where did you ever see a national convention of any kind that favored a single gold basis? Where did you ever see any convention of the representa-tive people of this country in whatever locality you please that favored it? It isn't for the people nor by the people. It is di-rectly against them and I for one am glad to see daylight dawning when we can in some way get back silver where it belongs as a money metal." (Much applause.)

Colonel W. M. Bray, member of the country speech

board of education, made a strong speech the cice of the meeting. He said he would have more to say at Griffin, but wanted to indorse all that had been said at this meeting. "This is one country where the people can move and act in such ters as these," said he with telling effect, "and I believe there is not gold enough in the vaults of the kingliest goldbug that can buy the votes of the American people. Their threat is a slander." (Trethese," said he with telling effect

J. Saap, Colonel B. B. Cheeny was called to the chair and F. H. Burch was elected secretary of the meeting. The resolutions were seconded by Colonel E. B. Milner, and Mr. S. H. Lowther, who made an instructive address in favor of their adoption. The resolutions were passed by unanimous voice as follows: "Whereas, it being apparant to us that the great issue now to be solved by the American people is whether we shall have a single gold standard, gold bonds and bank currency on one side, or bimetallic standard of government currency and ore, olved, 1. On this issue we declare therefore.

"Resolved, 1. On this issue we declare ourselves usaliterably opposed to the single gold standard and demand the immediate return to the constitutional standard of gold and silver by the restoration by this government, independently of any foreign power, of the unrestricted coinage of both, gold and silver into standard money at the ratio of 16 to 1 and upon terms of exact equality, the silver coin to be a full legal tender, equal with gold for all debts and dues, public and private.

"2. We are not opposed to the issue of bonds by the United States, but think that it should be done only to meet an imperious necessity, which should not arise in times of profound peace. We also think that when such bonds should be so issued they should be sold at their full market value and not at a sacrifice of $5,000,000, as was done in the sale of the last issue of bonds to the Rotrschilds.

"3. We demand the payment of all coin obligations of the United States, as provided by existing laws in either gold or silver coin, at the option of the creditor.

"4. On this issue we appeal from the dictation of the money power to the intelligence and patriotism of the American people and pledge ourselves as freeman to do all in our power with our ballots and influence to establish in unmistakable terms bimetallism in the United States."

Lyceums for Small Towns.

From The Savannah Press. A movement is under way to organize lyceums in the smaller cities and towns of Georgia. If successful this will give communities with populations of 1,000 or less an opportunity to hear the best talent on the American lecture platform. By establishing circuits the expense for each lyceum is reduced to a minimum and the cost to subscribers is rendered insignifihaps one or two other of the larger cities of the state have well organized and well tainments are given in the course of a season. During the past winter Savannah had a series of lectures and musical events under the auspices of its lyceum that have never been excelled by any course of enter tainments given here. The outlook is that the next season will find the lyceum mem-bership largely increased and more enter-rainments provided, the same high standard being maintained.

It is to be hoped that the plans being lidid to extend the benefits of the lyceums to smaller towns will succeed as they deserve to. Once the people become awakened to the possibility of making such as ened to the possibility of making such co operative efforts tell for the pleasure and intellectual progress of their towns it will not be a difficult matter to induce them to subscribe the small amount per capita required to meet expenses. Every town in Georgia of any size at all ought to be able to raise a sufficient sum to guarantee a lyceum course of high merit. The more numerous the lyceums become the less the expense should be. The ability to place a lecturer for a number of nights in succession should be a prime factor in holding down his charges. holding down his charges. Success to those who are moving in this important to The field is a fine one, and their should not be without rich results.

The Governor Is Firm

The Robinson impeachment case is a present attracting more attention than any one thing in Alabama. The state has juscompleted the taking of the testimony the witnesses for the prosecution at a c of $160, and the governor, as stated vesterday's Constitution, notified Robinso that the state would not bear the expens of taking the testimony of his with Robinson's friends were very much prised, apparently, as they claimed that the state, having the teltimony taken be-fore a commissioner, implied that all of the testimony for both sides would be taken. Such, however, is not the case, for Govern or Oates has taken a positive stand in the matter, as shown by the following interview had with him yesterday. The subject is of very intense interest to all of the people of this county and they are anxiously await-ing the outcome of the impeachment proceedings. Governor Oates said when inter viewed regarding the matter:

"I have declined every time I have be approached upon the subject to pay the expense of taking the testimony of Robinson's witnesses. He has a right to have his witnesses subpoensed before the court By declining. I am not depriving him of any of his rights. I simply decline to use the people's money to pay the expense of getting the testimony of his witnesses, which is his business, and not a matter which the state should pay for. The pay-ment of the expense of obtaining the testi-mony for the state is a matter in which it was, and is, interested. It is my duty, and that of every state official, to see that the that of every state official, to see that the law is enforced against those who violate its provisions. The state by law gives its process to all defendants in criminal cases, and impeachment proceedings to compet the attendance of their witnesses before the tribunal whose duty it is to hear the complaint and try the cause. Judge Robinson chase to have the companioners and bointed and the court appointed a gentle an to whom there is no objection, but obinson has no right to have the people's oney used to pay the expense of getting his testimony. He might extend the ex-amination over many months of time and to hundreds of witnesses and thus cost the state a large sum of money. He no right to any such thing. It is my duty to see to it that the people's money is not expended for improper purposes, and I am going to do it while I remain in officeam going to do it while I remain in omce-let it offend or please whom it may. I have no more right to make the state pay for obtaining Judge Robinson's testimony for his defense than I have to make it pay it This settles that part of the matter finally and fully. The general outline of the arrangement of the different displays is capital. It is such as to show off the greatest number of exhibits with the greatest ease at one glance of the eye. ### A BIG BATTLE WITH RATS.

They Swarm Over Walter Carter and He Kills 102 of Them.

Camden, July 5.-Walter Carter won hard-earned victory over an army of rats this morning. When the battle was finished and he counted the heap of his fallen enemies he found 102 of them.

Carter is a member of the firm of Roberts & Carter, provision dealers on Second street, just above Pearl street. For a long time the firm has suffered serious damage from the depredations of rats.

It was Mr. Carter's habit to open the store in the morning and he invariably heard a great scampering over the place as he entered. He concluded at last to have it out with the little beasts and began an investigation to find their rendezvous As he opened the door of a small brick smokehouse in the rear of the store, now little used, he saw at least a dozen rats run into holes in the floor and walls. They quickly recovered from their fright, how-ever, and soon emerged and glared viciously at him out of their little black eyes. Carter went out and got a short, thick club and a lantern and then re-entered the smokehouse. This time he door behind him. The dim light of the lantern served to daze the rats and Carter had no difficulty in killing three big fel-

As they gave vent to dying squeaks scores of other rats emerged from the holes and swarmed around the young man on all sides.

The rats leaped at his hands and face and crawled over his feet, all the while keeping up a horrible din of squealing. One after another of the soft, ugly things struck him as he stood dealing blows right and left. Still their numbers multiplied and the fighter began to fear that the rats would get the better of him. He had been bitten several times on the hands, but had managed to keep the rats names, but had managed to keep the rats from his head and face.

Thus the fight kept up for fully fifteen minutes and Carter was growing weary. At last, however, he felt that the numbers of the rats were gradually thinning out, and he had less trouble in keeping them.

When no more rats appeared Carter got out into the open air and gathered him together. In a few minutes he recove and, piling up the dead rats, found that he had killed 102 of them.

The Peach Carnival Is the City's Pride Just Now-Judge Hardeman Speaks in Dooly.

Macon, Ga., July 5 .- (Special.)-Ther was a called meeting of the city counc tonight to take action on the letter George Dole Wadley of June 22d to council announcing his withdrawal from the sewer contract, and a letter from Stephen N. Noble, announcing his witing-ness to proceed alone in building the sewers. The council adopted a resolution declining to release Mr. Wadley indidually or as a member of the firm of Roble & Wadley from any of his obligations or agreements under the terms of the contract made with the city April 27th. Mr. Wadley's alleged reason for wanting to with-draw is inability to get along permoniously with City Engineer Wilcox. The council's action tonight is significant. It is not known how the complication will end. The Chiefs' Convention.

At the meeting of the Chins' Union the report of the constitution and by-laws committee will be received and aged on, and other business relating to the perfection of the organiza-tion will be brought up for consideration. Another feature of the meeting will be the reception and reading of the report of the proceedings of the recent convention of the National Association of Chiefs of Police of the United States and Canada, which was recently held at Washington, D. C. At that convention many important changes were made in the laws of the organization and many new methods of exchange of information were adopted. All the plans and methods will be discussed at the Macon meeting of the state organization.

It is a bunch of fruit, comprising a dozen different kinds, frozen in a block of ice. It is a unique display of peaches, pears, plums, apples and grapes, all forming a beautiful bouquet in the center of a large block of crystal ice. The exhibit comes as one of Spalding county's offerings to the peach carnival.

Streets Are Being Improved-Society Leaders Off for the Summer. Columbus, Ga., July 5 .- (Special.)-The

The rock crush-er which was purchased by the city council short time since is now in operation at the city's quarry near Flat Rock, and car loads of macadam ready for use are ship-ped into town daily. One of the main thoroughfares of the city has been completed and the paving of Broad street is now in progress.

The Howard Bank at Cartersville Has Suspended Again.

LIABILITIES SAID TO BE $27,000

Mr. Howard Says That He Can Pay the Depositors Dollar for Dollar-Thinks He Will Quit for Good.

Cartersville, Ga., July 5 .- (Special.)-The Howard bank, of this city, closed its doors and Mr. W. H. Howard, the owner, is devoting himself to the settling up of its affairs. The doors were closed at 2:30 o'clock Saturday evening, but remarkable as it may seem, there was no excitement occasioned, which is due to the confidence the depositors and the people have in Mr. Howard. the cause of the suspension was a small run while ready funds were not at hand on account of slow collections. Among the depositors were many of the most prominent business men and also a number of large farmers who had their money in the bank to run cropping operations, and although these were inconve-nienced for the time by the suspension, no word expressing either uneasiness or dis-satisfaction was uttered. The few who questioned Mr. Howard as to the status of affairs were assured that though forced to suspend he was able and would pay all de-positors dollar for dollar.

To The Constitution's correspondent Mr.

Howard said this morning that he was de-voting his whole time to straightening out the accounts of the bank with a view to paying the depositors as fast as he could.

To the question "What are the liabilities and the assets of the bank?" Mr. Howard said the liabilities figured out about $27,000. The assets he was not prepared to accurately state, as he was not through summing them up, but they were surely ample and Monday morning he has paid up more than an eighth of all amounts due. He says everybody will be paid up, and that soon. "What caused the suspension?"

"It was just my inability to say 'No' to To those who know Mr. Howard's busi ness career these words were significant. The bank has closed twice before this, once in 1886, when run by J. J. Howard & Son. Mr. W. H. Howard, who was then the jun-ior partner of the bank, sacrificed all his individual property and paid all depositors their money, dollar for dollar, and in a surprisingly short time. He resumed busi-ness in a few months after suspension with the full confidence of all former patrons and the people. He was always accommodating—too much so, and while extending accommodations he failed to protect his own interests. Two years ago he ran short of ready cash and closed his doors again. His depositors at once called a meeting and unanimously resolved to not check on their accounts for six months. This was a thing unprecedented in the history of the town and enabled Mr. Howard to go on and saved the town the hurtful effects of a

SYMPATHY FOR WALLER. Washington Friends Making Up a

Purse for Him.
Washington, July 5.—It is understood that the state department has requested Ambassador Eustis to push the Waller matter with the French government to a final conclusion as speedily as possible. The attention of the department has just been called by Mr. P. H. Bray, the step-son of ex-Consul Waller, to the fact that Waller has been denied all medical attention by the French prison authorities and that he is suffering from chills and is in an altogether lamentable condition. As soon as the department was made aware of this condition of affairs a cablegram was at once sent to Ambassador Eustis to see that Waller had proper attention and that his case was considered with proper speed. Some of the personal friends of the ex-consul are making up a purse which will be sent him, from which it is hoped he will be able to recure personal comfort while The department has also sent a message to our corsul at Antanarivo, the capital of Madagascar, asking him to look after the family of the ex-consul. No word has been received from this family since last January, and it is uncertain as to when word can reach them, for the city is in a state of siege and all communications have to pass the inspection of the French military authorities. Louisville, Ky., July 5.—The Kentucky populists were in session early this morning, but it was nearly noon before they got down to real work. For the Sale of The Whisky Trust Property.

Chicago, July 5.—Judge Showalter today signed the decree of sale which provides for the auctioning off of the eighteen best pieces of whisky trust property. The sale will probably take place Monday, August 5th. It will be a mere formality, as there are no other bidders expected besides the reorganization committee, whose offer of $9,800,000 is made the upset price by the terms of the order. Counsel for the reorganization committee say the decree is not appealable, and that even if it were record, cannot come in as appellants. An appeal would probably not stop the sale inless it is made under other c'rcum stances than the court seems disposed to grant the defeated parties to the cause. Edwin Walker, who represents Green-hut, this morning said he would attempt to get an appeal. He was of the opinion that even if his client should be found

Less than one week of sporting life was enough to satisfy the two young men who were given the Chattanooga franchise last

Within five days after assuming charge and control of the Chattanooga franchise in the Southern Association of Baseball Clubs Mr. L. D. Drewry and Mr. Charles Reif walked into President Nicklin's office and surrendered to the association the

But the action of Messrs. Drewry and Reif, while a great surprise to those who were at the meeting in the Reed house last Sunday, when they were given that corner of the association, will not in the least affect the association.

The national game will go on to the end of the season as scheduled, maybe with Chattanooga as a stopping point and maybe with some other city in her place. Anyhow the association will go just the same and there will not be a meeting of the league magnates to determine where the franchise of the defunct Tennessee town is exercised. That much has been definitely determined by those who are in position to control the entire association and who are anxious for the season to be played through without the loss of a game. They are the people who have their money invested in the towns that are paying and they have directed President Nicklin to hold the Chattanooga team together and play it as scheduled at the expense of the the expenses of the team can be borne and both of these will be brought into play if his board of advisers determining that ques-

As president of the association Mr. Nick In has in hand two funds, one the guar-tee fund and the other the sinking fund. The guarantee fund is quite a nice little sum and is made up of the money each of the eight clubs put up before the season opened to play through. Chattanooga, like the other cities in the association, put her part in the treasury and it is there now, the property of the other seven clubs. Then there is the sinking fund which was made up by a levy on every club for every game played since the season opened. This fund has been touched once before for Chattanooga and also as a prop for Mem phis for a few days, but in the two there is enough money to carry the team through the season and leave the eight clubs tact, and this is what the directors of the association have practically instructed President Nicklin to do.

But before that fund is touched an as-sessment will be made every day upon the teams playing to carry the Chattanooga team along. Of course, the amount of money taken in at any game in which the 'Noogans participate will find its way into the hands of the president, who will see that the players of the team are paid and cared for. Then any deficiency that there may be will be made up from the money the treasury.

Luckily, however, there are several chances for neither of these plays to be made. Three towns are after the fran-chise, and either one of the three would be able to do something toward helping along the pay roll if not able to carry it wholly. Macon wants it and so does Mobile, while there are good chances to find a home for the team in Knoxville. Mobile is certainly able to carry the team without asking help from the association, and the indications are that Macon is ripe for the game once more and that the fans of that city will put up enough to carry it the two months the association yet has to run. will be seen that there are ways than one to carry on the team v

At that meeting it was apparent to all that the Chattanooga and the Evansville franchises were in doubtful hands financially, and among some of the members of the association there was an idea of cutting down the membership to siw clubs, selecting the best six to go through the season, but when Mr. Clark, of Evansville, asked for the transfer of the franchise to the company he repre sented, which was composed of wealthy men of the Indiana city, it was found almost impossible to refuse the grant had any one wished to do so. Then when Mr. Drewry and Mr. Reif, of Chattanooga, stepped in and requested to become the owners of the Chattanooga franchise the situa-tion looked quite bright. Mr. Bickart, of Atlanta, however, suggested that it might be well for the gentlemen who wanted to follow in the wake of those who had gone out, to show the meeting their ability to

Mr. Drewry stated that be and Mr. Reif and those who would be associated with them would like to secure the franchise and take Mr. Albert, who started out as the manager of the team. He said that he would see that the franchisa was protected while he had it and that when he found that he could not carry it on he would place it in the hands of the president in as good shape, if not better, than when he took it up.

The first intimation Atlanta had of the falldown in the Tennessee town was a tel-egran from President Nicklin to Mr. Bickart yesterday morning simply stating that the Chattanooga franchise was on his hands again. Mr. Bickart wired the president to hold the Chattanooga team together by all done at the expense of the association. Then a like character were sent from other managers and owners in successful towns. Mr. Bickart wired Macon, telling them that the franchise could be secured and within a short time an inquiry came from Superintendent Winters, of the Macon Street Raliroad Company, asking what the salary list of the team was. Mr. Bickart at once put Mr. Winter and President Nickin to talking over the wire and the result

Later in the day Mobile put in another bid for the Chattanooga franchise through At-lanta friends, while Knoxville made some inquiries. Not long after that first telegram President Nicklin wired the Atlanta club as

THE ATLANTAS WON OUT, But the Game Was One in Which the

as well as some of the heaviest slugging shows. game usually was in the box for the Travelers, and the quick, easy manner in which he disposed of the Atlantas in the first inning indicated that Knowles and his men were at his mercy. Only three men rubber in the first and neither one could do anything with Fifield's curves.

Little Rock, on the other hand, took kindly to Wood from the very start and in the first inning got two hits, a single and a double, the one by Hoebright and the other by Dolan, which, with a base on balls to Sheehan, gave two runs. This, of course, was not what the spectators wanted, and for a little time every one was quite blue.

But in the second, on two hits, one Gccdenough, the other by Hornung, together with a base on balls to Friel and a steal er with a base on balls to Friel and a steal for Friel and Goodenough Atlanta got two runs, tying the score, After that it was nip and tuck with the teams, but At-lenta got the best of it all the way through. Some peculiar features were seen during the game. In the third with four hits and a stolen base Atlanta could make but one run, and yet in the eighth with one hit, a stolen base and two bases on balls At-lanta made three runs.

One of the features of the game was the batting of Hornung and Goodenough. Goodenough got three singles and a sacrifice and made two of the runs, while Hornung got three hits, two of them being triples, a sacrifice and one run. In Hornung's playing there is something interesting. teresting. He is doing as good work today as he ever did in the big league and is as light and chipper on the ball field as a kid. He is one of the men who is in the game from the time it starts until it is over. He knows all of the tricks of the trade and much of the success of the work is due to his head. Like Hornung, Good-enough is doing some excellent ball play-ing and is making for himself a name all over the association.

The teams are now even on win lose and both managers will be out all there is in the work. The Atlantas have now been against the Little Rocks three times and out of the series have so far lost only one game. ries have so far lost only one game. That was the one lost on the Fourth of July, and the one about which so much kicking is being done. It would be out of the usual run of events even in baseball were one team in an association to beat another one team in an association to beat another team every game of the season. Then, too the people of Atlanta who love the game should remember that Atlanta has never won a Fourth of July game, and it appears that Atlanta never can win on any kind of holiday at home.

Norton will be in the box for Knowle

Columbus Wins.

Columbus, Ga., July 5.—(Special.)—The with a much better team than that Thursday, Street, the new pitcher from Birmingham, was in the box for Columbus and proved himself an invaluable player. He struck out thirteen men, and Bridge did much toward winning the game by kis good work with the stick. Everett did the best batting for Columbus. His clever base best batting for Columbus. The Colum-running was a feature, too. The Colum-bus boys were feeling a trifle sore over their humiliating deteat on Thursday and played shappy, aggressive game. Key carried off the batting honors for Atlanta, besides covering first bag in the most ap-proved style. The game was one of the closest and most interesting played here this season. The score was: Columbus, 9; Atlanta, 8. The third game will be played tomorrow afternoon and both clubs will put their strongest team.

RACES AT BRIGHTON BEACH.

Opening Day-The Track Vepy

Heavy.

Brighton Beach, L. I., July 5.—Considering that the day was anything but fine, and that yesterday was a holiday, the attendance on the opening day at Brighton was very flattering. There were nearly 3,000 people present. The track was very heavy from frequent showers this morning and the fields were in consequence very light as a result of withdrawals. In the fifth race Prig had a walk over. The betting was conducted in the same fashion as at Sheepshead and Brooklyn. The sport, though not of a high class, was interest-

THE EXPOSITION.

Cedartown Standard: No previous exposition in all the history of the south will be so largely attended as the one in Atlanta this fail. The north and northwest are coming to see us in Georgia as they have never before. All eyes in the union are turned toward the south, and never before has there been such an opportunity to show Polk county to the world as this is going to be. We have everything-solicilmate, fruits, agricultural products, minerals of more kinds and of greater practical utility than any county in the whole state. We must have everything sepresented. At the grand-roll call of counties, Polk will answer "present!" What are you going to do to help along your county's record in the great display of county exhibits?

A NIGHT OF MUSIC

Tue English Bell Ringers and a Quartet at the Chautauqui

Ronewed interest is shown in the bantauqua entertainment. Last night a jagnificent audience filled the grand and one of the most enjoyable entertainments of the week was given.

The English bell ringers played some file delections and carried the audience b storm. The silver-toned bells as manip lated by these artists woke beautiful music, at times somber and weird and at times brilliant and rollicksome. The audience showered continuous applause and compelled the bell ringers to give encore after

The Cunningham Quartet sang four or five numbers very effectively, and Miss Cunningham sang a duet with her brother, Mr. C., O. Cunningham, in brilliant style. This quartet grows in popularity every day, many persons declaring that it is the finest male quartet that has ever sung in Atlanta.

The singing of the Atlanta Vocal Society, under the direction of Mr. A. M. Burbank, was most excellent,

Mr. Julian Harris made a distinct hit with his recitations of "Uncle Remus Stories." His recital of the "Tar Baby" legend was inimitable. The audience was delighted and compelled Mr. Harris to give Frank L. Stanton emphasized the good impression he made a few evenings ago. He recited "How the Lawyers Ruined Billville," and he was frequently rupted by laughter and applause. doubtedly Mr. Stanton ranks with the best platform entertainers in this country. Mr. Alex W. Bealer carried off many honors. His fine imitation of the dialect and manner of the negro caught the crowd and he was frequently applauded. He gave a graphic account of the debate on the currency question, in which half a dozen negroes participated. His remarkable talents for mimicry and his ability as a dialectician excited the admiration of all. His success was unequivocal.

The gem of the evening was "The Bugle Cail," Colonel John Milledge's marsong, which was brillianty sung by William Owens. He was compelled to repeat it three times.

A Fine Accompanist. Miss Jessie Wood, the accompanist, has discharged her onerous duties conscientl-ously and well, and has received the plaudits of Director Burbank, Mme. Balley, Miss Wuertz and others. Her patience and painstaking efforts cannot be too highly commended. It should be mentioned in this connection that the piano she used This is a superb instrument, a Fischer grand, which possesses an exceptionally sonorous and brilliant tone. Its tonal qualities excited the admiration not only of the musicians, but the audience. It was furnished the chautauqua assembly free of cost by the Phillips & Crew Company.

A Children's Matinee. This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock there will be a children's matinee, when an admission of 15 cents to all parts of the house will be charged. A very interesting programme will be given, The bell ringers and the Cunningham Quintet will appear in four or five numbers, Miss Ada Lewis will recite and Mr. L. P. Hills will make a humorous address. There will be plenty of fun and an abundance of good music. Tonight's Programme.

The second week of the assembly will close tonight with a very fine entertain-

Sunday's Programme. Great preparations have been made for the sacred concert tomorrow af-ternoon, and a programme of great excel-lence will be presented. The Atlanta Vocal Society will render some fine choral works, under the direction of Mr. A. M. Burbank. The Apollo Quartet will sing several sacred pieces. The bell ringers will give various sacred selections. Mr. William Owens, Mr. Samuel Burbank and others will sing, and Mr. Lucius P. Hills will give some of his inimitable recitations. The programme will be a strong and varied one, and it is likely that an immense audi ence will fill the Grand. Tomorrow evening an eloquent preacher will deliver an ad-dress, and there will be a plentiful supply of sacred music. It is expected that to-morrow will be a red-letter day in the his-tory of the Atlanta Chautauqua Assembly.

From The Buffalo Courier.
Four curious specimens of humanity have been confined in Norridgewock jail, accused of sheep stealing. They were arrested in Brighton.
They belong to a gang of about forty persons who have no homes, but who have lived until recently near the Canadian line, like wild beasts in the summer and in caves during the winter. They wear and in caves during the winter. They wear little or no clothing, and their backs, which have been long exposed to the sun and have been long exposed to the sun and weather, are covered with a growth of hair fully three inches long. It is hard to make sense out of their conversation, although they have learned to swear so they are understood. One of the men, a giant in form, is an idiot. His sides are full of small heles made by a brad in the end of a heles made by a brad in the end of a stick, when he has been yoked to an ox. ### The Argument Answered.

From The Griffin, Ga., News.
The Atlanta Constitution thus effectively answers the foolish argument most used by the goldbugs: "The argument that free silver coinage would benefit the silver mine owners is childish. Suppose it would? The Louisville and Nashville road and the Queen and Crescent give all eastern points the most favorable freight and passenger rates, while the traffic from the northwest is almost prohibited. They will immediately commence the manufacture of lumber of all forms, box and barrel material and small factories for other purposes. It is intended to establish a town, with churches, schools etc., and in general to begin a comprehensive movement for the development of this great tract of land. Mr. Pope says that commencing in September, and continuously adding thereto, it is estimated that within two years the total number of persons to be located will be 30,000. The effect of such a population movement as this upon the immediate territory, upon the railroads which penetrate that region as well as upon Georgia and the sauth at large, can be readily understood.

Although only about one-third of the colonists will be members of the Grand Army, Mr. Fitzgerald states that an estimate has been midde-showing that these Grand Army men will bring to the colony an aggregate of about $00,000 a year in pension payments, which in itself will be a new feature in southern advancement when the enormous sums which have here-tofore been paid in the north and west for pensions are turned toward the south. EMBARRASSING THE ROAD. The Central Is Throwing Every Obstacle Possible in the Way. Augusta, Ga., July 5,-(Special.)-The narrow gauge railroad, the Augusta Southern, has encountered another delay in entering Augusta over the Central railroad's right of way. After the court decided that appraisers should value the right of way, and the Augusta Southern pay the amount fixed, the narrow gauge road appointed Mr. J. J. Doughty as its member of the board of appraisers. The Augusta and Savannah then declined to make any appointment.

The ordinary was appealed to and brought from his sickbed to his office to make the appointment. He named Mr. William J. Craig, general freight and passenger agent of the Port Royal and Western Carolina rallway, as appraiser for the Augusta and Savannah, and he and Mr. Doughty to name the third. Mr. Doughty has been unable to get Mr. Craig to act with him in naming the third appraiser, and today Craig refused to do so, saying that he preferred that Judge Calloway, of the superior court, should name the third. This entails another delay and it will be next week before the narrow gauge can get the right to proceed.

NOW FOR THE WATER. Clara Meer Will Soon Be a Lovely Sparkling Lake.
Yesterday the workmen were busily engaged in making the final preparations for the water to be turned in the lake at the exposition grounds.

A vast quantity of dirt has been removed and the heavy dams have been compactly built. Pipes have been laid and the connections are now being rapidly made ing Chicago day at Atlanta and of attending the great southern exposition in force. Committees have been appointed to arrange all the details, and our foremost and most public-spirited citizens are taking an active part in promoting the scheme. "From every point of view-business, social and political—the occasion cannot be other than Relicitous. In business it will point out the advantages of a closer relationship between the northwest and the south; socially it will make us better acquainted with each other's good qualities, and politically it will demonstrate that we are the same people, with homogeneous interests, citizens of a vast empire and of an indissoluble union of indestructible states. with the city waterworks.

In a day or two everything will be in readiness, and when the valve is opened at the dam a large stream of water will go rushing from the liver into the excavation. The water will be filtered, and it is expected that the lake will be as clear as rystal. The lake will require more than 30,000,000 gallons of water to fill it, and it will take thirty days to accomplish this.

The water will be furnished through a six-inch main, and will be turned off during the day nad run only at night, as the city can't spare the water during the day. The Launches Are Beauties.

cease their discrimination against Chicago and the northwest, a discrimination which is as hostile to the people of the south as it is to us. The Times-Herald has here-tofore pointed out how both freight and passenger rates from eastern points are greatly lower than those charged from northwestern points. This injustice should cease. Chicago day in Atlanta will be a red letter day this year and a memorable one." Mr. Walter G. Cooper, of the exposition board, has received several photographs and descriptions of the steam launches that will ply upon Clara mere. They are elegant in structure and symmetrical and will greatly add to the beauty of the grounds. Some of the same launches that were used at the world's fair will be shipped to Atlanta. WANTED FOR BURGLARY.

County Police Capture a Negro Who Had Been at Large Many Months. Last night County Policemen T. O. Con-naily and H. F. Verner arrested George Smith, alias George Walker, in Reynoldstown. The negro is charged with having committed a dairy robbery on the Boulewherever there are rough places, and the track will be greatly improved.

It is the purpose of the Southern also to put much better equipments on their road, and in the near future the schedules will be changed and improved as far as it is possible to do so at this time.

The officials state that they believe the vard more than a year ago, and though he has been diligently searched for by the officers, he succeeded in evading them until last night.

CIGARETTE DEALERS SUE To Have the Business of the Tobacco Trust Declared Unlawful.

Trenton, N. J., July 5 .- In the suit of John R. and Frank W. Miller, cigarette dealers of Newark, N. J., to have the busi-ness of the American Tobacco Company declafed unlawful on the ground that it destroys competition in the sale of paper cigarettes. Chancellor McGill today filed an opinion striking out of the case any supplemental information filed by Attorney General Stockton, in which it is alleged that the tobacco trust combination is injurious to the growers of the plant in Vir-ginia and North Carolina. The chancellor holds that the supplemental information roos farther than was expected when per-goes farther than was expected when per-mission to file it was granted. It was not contemplated, he says, that the combina-tion against the tobacco growers would be set up further than as to its effect upon the cigarette dealers and the public of the city hall when the board of aldermen convened yesterday afternoon. Some were there simply to see what was to be done, while others were present for the purpose of advocating or opposing some of the questions that would be raised during the meeting.

But if any one had an idea that the session was to be a warm one or in any way productive of sensational features he was doomed to disappointment. The meeting was chook full of business, and it was done quickly and quietly, with hardly a dis-cussion among the members on any but one of the questions, that of exempting from taxation certain manufactories within the city, limits.

The clerk took from his table the report of the tax committee granting the Woodward Lumber Company an exemption from taxation by the city for a term of ten years, the machinery and the buildings only intended. The petition as written asked for an exemption from taxation for everything for a term of twenty years, but when it fell into the hands of the tax committee Mr. Bell, the chairman, and his associates, were of the opinion that it was a questionable grant to make, but suggested in their report that the exemp-

Mr. Howell said that he wanted to foster all enterprises that would come to Atlan-ta and he believed in exempting them from taxation if it could be done. He did not think, however, that the time sho made too long or the schedule of property exempted too wide. committee and the board of health that a check be issued to the Dixon Crematory Company, of Findlay, O., for $12,500 for the crematory was taken up. The papers sent in by the board of health and the sanitary committee showed the contract which had been made a year ago between the city of Atlanta and the Dixon com-pany and declared that the Dixon com-pany had carried out its part of the contract. The board concurred in the report and the check will be issued upon demand. The report of the committee on electric lights, telephones and telegraph awarding the contract for lighting the police head-quarters to the Georgia Electric Light Company for the coming year for $1,000 was read and concurred in and the mayor ights, telephones and telegraph awarding was authorized to enter into a contract with the electric light company for the work at the price stipulated. The report of the street committee awarding the contract for granite flagging to Bishop & Phillips, was concurred in.

A long list of new arc lights, reported by the committee on electric lights, were ordered erected. The appropriation of $500 to Fraser street and Edgewood avenue grammar schools to make them eight-grade schools, was au-thorized, and the work of increasing the schools will commence at once.

Will Be Thursday. The street committee did not meet yesterday to dispose of the crossing of Murphy avenue, in the seventh ward, by the side track which the Woodward Planing Mill

Company is constructing.

Mr. Day, chairman of the committee, found it impossible to get some of the in-formation he was seeking in time for a meeting yesterday, and as there are quite a number of parties who want to be heard on the matter and as it will take a long time to complete the investigation, the chairman has issued a call for a meeting of his committee for flext Thursday and has instructed Messenger Moon to notify all parties interested in the matter to be on hand at that time. Mr. Day realized that he has two factions widely apart to satisfy and is anxious that every one in any way interested should be present at the meeting. The Prison Committee. Mr. Sims, chairman of the prison com-mittee, will have a meeting of that committee one day early next week.

While at the barbecue at the stockade farm on the Fourth Mr. Sims and the other members of his committee killed two birds with one stone. While there to take in the good things Captain Wylle had grown for them on the stockade farm they were looking about to see if any improvements could be made. There are two or three points of improvement in the prison the members of the committee think they have found and at the meeting the suggestions will be interchanged and maybe out of the conference there may come a report which will make the stockade prison yet more secure than it is and at the same time the best stockade prison in the state.

The Pauper Burials. Mr. Mayson, of the relief committee, and his associates have on hand an important question which they will have to settle in a short time.

The burial of the negro paupers has always been an unsolved problem in Atlanta. Sometimes they are buried one way and sometimes another way is sought. Mr.
Mayson is of the opinion that the work should be done by a negro undertaker and that it should be awarded to the one making the lowest bid.

Washington, July 5.—Surgeon General Wyman this morning telegraphed Dr. Joseph Y. Porter, health officer of the state of Florida, to know what foundation, if any, there was for the report that yellow fever existed in Tampa. Dr. Porter's reply was not received until tonight. He said that he had been at the quarantine station at Port Tampa and neither at that place nor Tampa proper had he found any symptoms of the presence of the disease. The story was started, he said, by a discharged employe of the passenger department of the Plant system. No Fever in Florida.

It will furnish an unexcelled opportunity for introducing northern products and northern methods into southern territory.

IN GEORGIA SANCTUMS.

The Madisonian's editor goes into raptures over a Georgia sunset. Hear him: over a Georgia sunset. Hear him:

"What a glorious sunset! On a background of deep blue, the sky canopied with light clouds of fleecy transparency, which catch the golden sunbeams and weave them into a texture richer than any loom of India could fashion or brush of Turner could imitate. All along the ridge of the mountains for many miles these sunbeams dance in a sportive chase of the lingering day and light up the summit of Resaga with a grand beacon that signals the coming night."

The Summerville News tells of an editor who was held up recently while returning from a neighboring town. The highwayman permitted him to go unmolested, however, when informed that it was an editor he had.

THE GRIFFIN CONVENTION.

Jonesboro Enterprise: The big bimetallic convention soon to be held at Griffin has attracted the attention of the administration goldbugs, and they are growing fearfully solicitous of its effects on the financial sentiment of Georgia and the south. That they are viewing the unanimity of sympathy and enthusiasm in preparation for this important gathering as dangerously ominous to their schemes in this state is now a certainty. With Bacon, Walsh and Morgan and many other prominent democrate whose patriotism and honesty long been strong factors in preserving public interests the Griffin convention will not lack for compentent and courageous leadership.

CLEVELAND IN GEORGIA.

Griffin News: An open policy at this time is the best, and it is healthier to speak out a few of the curses than to allow them to stay corked up and polson the system. It is necessary to repudiate Cleveland and Clevelandism in unmistakable terms, that the undiscriminating voter may not regard them as synonymous with democracy. At the same time it is good advice to look to it that we do not get another, president like Cleveland. But we can do the one without omitting the other.

When the dust cleared away there was a hole in the end of the carbox which the boys say was made by the negro's head.

John & Smith Telegraphs That He Wants To Return Here.

ASKS IF HE WILL BE PROSECUTED

Min Creditors Agree To Let the Matter Drop Upon His Settling Up with Them-Not Yet Arrested.

John S. Smith, the missing money broken who created so much interest by his strange disappearance several weeks ago, wants to return to Atlanta provided he will not be prosecuted by his creditors.

A telegram to that effect was received in Atlanta from Smith day before yesterday, addressed to his brother, Mr. J. P. Smith, the grocer, who called on the Moody Loan and Banking Company to ascertain if a settlement of Smith's indebtedness to them would save him from prosecution for embezzlement. Mr. Moody said yesterday afternoon that he had informed Mr. Smith that all his firm wanted was a settlement of John Smith's indebtedness to his firm and that if one was made the Moody Loan and Banking Company would not take further steps in the matter of prosecuting the miss-ng broker.

It was also said that the other creditors of Smith in the city agreed to the same proposition and there is a possibility that the broker may return and face his creditors and make an explanation of his strange disappearance and whereabouts since leav-ing Atlanta on May 23d.

ing Atlanta on May 23d.

Mr. J. P. Smith, the grocer, is said to have telegraphed his brother, John S. Smith, who seer s to be located in Juarez, Mexico, the proposition of the Moody Loan and Banking Company and others, but nothing further has been heard from him. The amount owed the Moody bank by Smith is Can He Be Extradited?

The Moody bank has under consideration and investigation the question of bringing and investigation the question of bringing Smith back to Atlanta by process of law if he can be arrested and extradited. Mr. Moody said yesterday that his attorney, Mr. R. C. Hartsfield, was looking into the law on the subject and would doubtless advise him today whether or not the treaty laws between the United States and Mexico will resmit. Smith's helps prought back on the permit Smith's being brought back on the charge against him-embezzlement. In the event that in Mr. Hartfield's opinion Smith can be extradited the bank people will at once request Chief Connolly to telegraph to Mexico and have him arrested and held until extradition papers can be got from Washington and sent to that country by an officer authorized to bring Smith to Atlanta.

It seems that there has been very slight efforts to have Smith arrested made by the Atlanta concerns which are said to be his creditors to the extent of several thousand dollars. The Moody bank is the only concern that has exhibited the slightest desire to have Smith arrested, so far as is known. but as stated in The Constitution several days ago, it is thought that there are other creditors and losers by Smith's disappear-ance than the Moody bank.

A False Hope.

A False Hope.

From The Syracuse, N. Y., Standard.

The ablest as well as the sincerest advocate of free coinage in this country is, perhaps, The Atlanta Constitution, and from that newspaper we get the plain avowal that the chances of international co-operation for the establisment of a ratio designed to put silver on a parity with gold are too remote to be considered in an honest discussion of the money question. The Atlanta Constitution makes no bones in giving this as the straight doctrine of the cause it represents. It even goes farthe cause it represents. It even goes far-ther, for it berates the free coinage press in general for holding out a hope so delu-sive. Its voice is raised unequivocally for independent action on the part of the gov-ernment of the United States looking to ernment of the United States looking to coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. It has collected a deal of information from the opinions of English, German, French and Italian statesmen to prove that there is little or nothing in the reports which are used here to encourage the idea of inter-national agreement. Particular stress is laid on the improbability of Great Britain ever deviating from the gold standard, even to the extent of considering the advisability of going into council with other nations upon the subject.

The Atlanta Constitution evidently has nothing to conceal in the position it takes. It is a newspaper beyond suspicion as a hireling advocate of free collage, and therefore ought to be listened to with respect and interest by the country in who spect and interest by the country in what-ever it may have to say insupport of its monetary theory. We imagine its frank-ness in the matter of international agree-ment will disturb the avaricious dreams of that section of the free coinage press which is controlled by different motives. Newspapers which would have their readers believe that international agreement is possible, and have pretended to espouse the cause of free coinage from that ground, will find themselves left in the lurch by the unfeigned candor of the Atlanta Constitution.

A Proud Old Peer.

The duke of Argyll, who, at the age of seventy-three, is about to marry for the third time, is again the interesting subject of the London correspondents' comments.
"The duke," says one of them in a letter to The Chicago Times-Herald, "has long been the tarket for good natured satire even among those who recognize his scholarship and oratorical power. He has steadily re-fused to admit that Darwin knew anything of natural history, or Ricardo anything of natural history, or Ricardo anything about political economy, and of late years he has been half inclined to suspect that Giadstone's conceptions of politics are fundamentally erroneous. Intellectual rival he never had, nor social superior—in his own esteem. He actually extends his patronizing manner to reyalty, for, when Victoria made him a peer of the United Kingdom he reciprocated by making a public speech on the subject, which was emirently gracious in tone." Assuming that this transaction (the bond sale) was all right and in the interest of the American treasury, which may or may not be so, it is at any rate a frightful indication of the fact that the most powerful dication of the fact that the most powerful governments of the world are at the mercy of the money power so long as government finances are based upon the restricted stock of gold which is held and controlled by the great bankers. There will be no safety for the governments of the western world until the power of the gold ring is destroyed or neutralized by the restoration of bimetallism.

"What Is Its Object?"

A delegate to the goldbug convention at Memphis prints an article in the cuckoo organ in Atlanta inquiring about the object of the silver convention to be held in Griffin. Fresh from what he supposes to be the goldbug victory in Memphis, he declares that "it is quite clear that the silver convention to be held in Griffin on July 18th is not a movement in the interest of the democratic party.'

But before we begin to discuss the purport of a convention not yet held, let us inquire of this delegate to the goldbug convention held in Memphis if that affair was held in the interest of the democratic party. In that pied and motley concern democrats from the south were cheek by towl with the bitterest republicans, and they went through the convention hand in hand.

What was the object of a convention that was thus constituted? How can southern opinion or democratic action be influenced by a convention which was wide open to republicans, and of which republicans constituted a large element.

What respect can those democrats who believe in settling all differences on this and other questions within the party, have for the recommendations of a body which not only received with open arms the republican enemies of the democratic party, but allowed those republican enemies to dictate the platform?

The only reasonable explanation of such meetings as the goldbug convenon hold at Memphis is that they are in the interest of republican financial doctrines. They are leagues of recreant democrats and faithful republicans, who call upon the friends of the British gold standard to combine and strive for the perpetuation of that regardless of former political associations. This is a pleasing proposition to the republicans. It is an indorsement of one of the cardinal principles of their creed. They accept readily invitations from recreant democrats to aid in the advocacy of a policy which is theirs already, and which the republican party, steered by John Sherman, surreptitiously carried out.

We judge from the cuckoo and postmaster organs that the Memphis convention, held in the interest of the British' gold standard, and participated in by democratic officeholders and republican politicians, was a very patriotic affair, but that a convention to be participated in by the people of Georgiathe men who have made the democratic party invincible against republicanism in this state-is something to be frowned down.

Were party lines considered in the selection of delegates to the Memphis convention? Did the call for that convention or for the primaries to select delegates come through any recognized democratic authority? Was the Memphis convention a democratic convention? If not, why does one of the Atlanta delegates to the Memphis convention make a complaint in the cuckoo organ in regard to the Griffin convention? Matters have come to a pretty pass indeed when the claim is seriously made that it is all right for the goldbugs and the agents of Wall street to hold conventions to perfect their plans for robbing and swindling the producers of the country, but all wrong for the people to hold a convention for the purpose of making their desires known.

"What is the object of a convention that is thus being constituted?" asks the Memphis delegate from Atlanta. The objet is exactly and emphatically the reverse of that of the Memphis convention. That convention was held in the interests of the money power and was intended to aid the administration in its efforts to compel honest democrats to indorse the financial doctrines of John Sherman and the republicans. The Griffin convention is to be held simply and solely in the interests of the common people, and its purpose is to enable the people to organize against the schemes of gold sharks.

It is a convention that will have for its members some of the most distinguished democrats in Georgia-the men who give the democratic party in this state its brains and its influence.

A Discordant Note.

We regret to find the patriotic doctrine of that great Virginian, Monroe, repudiated by a leading newspaper of his own

The Richmond Times suggests that the Venezuelans are very friendly with us just now because they hope that we will enforce the Monroe doctrine and call a halt in England's seizure of South American territory. Our contemporary argues that it is no affair of ours whether England grabs Venezuela's land or whether she lets it alone. It says that if Venezuela chose to cut loose from Spain and set up in business for h she must fight her own battles and leave us to fight ours. The Times goes on to say:

And, in conclusion, we desire to say that it is our deliberate opinion the Hon. Colo-nel Livingston will create no excite-ment in the United States, even if he proves that Great Britain is about to seize those gold and asphalt lands; but that th American people will be perfectly content to go on attending to their own business, even if this be so, and leave the Venezuelans to attend to theirs in the best way that they can.

We feel safe in saying that these are not the sentiments of the American people. Congress has requested England to submit her boundary dispute with our southern neighbor to arbitration, and the majority of our statesmen, citizens and newspapers side with our plucky sister republic and favor the vigorous reassertion of the policy promulgated by President Monroe.

Shall we sit down quietly and allow the British to obtain control of Central and South America and fortify themselves at the entrance to the Nicaragua canal? When did the Monroe doctrine which was aimed at just such aggressions become a dead letter?

Venezuela is one of the most progres sive of the South American republics She is bound to us by the ties of friendship and commercial interest, and it is a patriotic duty on our part to see that no European power destroys or despoils her. The policy advocated by The Richmond paper would soon leave us without allies or friends, and the United States would be practically encircled by a cordon of British fortresse The Americans who would repudiate Monroe would also repudiate Washington. It is a part of the goldbug-tory programme and is designed to give England the control of this hemisphere.

China and the Missionaries. Reports continue to reach this country to the effect that the Christian missionaries in China are undergoing a cruel persecution.

It is said that anti-missionary riots have recently occurred in the Sechuan, Yunan and Kweichau provinces. The foreigners in the disturbed districts cannot communicate with the outside world. and it is feared that they are in great danger. Diplomatic representatives in Peking claim to have direct proof that the trouble is incited by the viceroy at Chengtu, who is the declared enemy of the Christians. He has endeavored to exclude them from his territory and has oppressed them for the past nine years. A short time ago he was superseded, and he signalized his retirement by striking a deadly blow at the institutions which he hates so intensely. He issued printed proclamations encouraging his subordinates to attack the missionaries, and the highest authorities of the emnice are aware of his conduct. Late in May a Canadian Methodist mission and an American Methodist mission were destroyed by mobs. Then, two English missions and a French mission were wrecked, and about $5,000,000 worth of property was destroyed. Many of the inmates of these institutions were women, and great anxiety is felt concerning their fate. The consuls at Shanghai find It difficult to get news, but they have learned that a number of Catholic converts were killed and French bishop was wounded. The sur viving missionaries are confined in the viceroy's offices for their better protec-

An appeal has been made by some of the American missionaries to our government for protection, but our bad faith with China and our unjust exclusion of the Chinese from this country make it hard for us to interfere successfully. If the Chinese decide to banish our missionaries and all Americans we expect fair treatment and protection in China we should negotiate a new treaty under which the Chinese who come to this country will be treated as justly as immigrants from other coun-

The South and the Exposition.

The Baltimore Manufacturers' Record urges the railways and people of this section to wake up to the importance of a liberal expenditure of money in making comprehensive displays at the Atlanta exposition.

The Record says of the action of other

It looks now as though northern and western states might possibly be far better represented than the south. Should this prove to be true, the world would simply judge the south's failure to be due to its lack of resources as compared with other sections, and other sections would thus gat a magnificent advertisement to the disadvantage of the south. This is especially illustrated in the movement now on foot to transfer from California to Atlanta the splendid exhibit prepared by that state for the midwinter California fair a year ago. This exhibit is said to equal that made by California at the world's fair at a cost of $500,000. The railroads have already of-fered $10,000 toward defraying the expenses of shipping the exhibit to Atlanta. The people of California, realizing the necessi-ty of working for immigration and of try-ing to stem the southward tide of population, are taking up this matter with great enthusiasm. They are likely to come int the south with an exhibit which will pr such an advertisement for California as to draw to that state some of our own south-

Our contemporary thinks that it is unfortunate for the south that our people rely too much upon the natural advantages of the country and do not realize the absolute necessity of eternal push and hustling and unending advertising in telling others what we already know The southern states threw away their opportunity at the world's fair, and if they now repeat their mistake they will lose the greatest advertisement which they have ever had the opportunity of

securing. The resolutions passed by the Houston business league declare that our exposition will be perhaps the best opportunity ever offered the southern states for an exhibition of their matchless products, the world's fair not excepted. Texas is urged to get ready for it without delay. and every city, town, commercial organization and railway in the state has been requested to send delegates to the state convention in Houston on the 15th in order that ways and means may be dveised for the proper representation of Texas at Atlanta. This is on the right-line. Besides the splendid exhibits from the north and west and from the Spanish-American and other countries, we are very anxious to see a fine display of the matchless reces of this region. It is our one chance to bring the outside world in touch with the south and it should not be neglected. If we could have things as we wish the advantages and attract tions of the south should be presented at the exposition on a scale so extensive and magnificent that their splendor would dazzle the world and tempt enterprise and capital from every quarter of the globe. The time is short and our neighbors should bestir themselves.

A Ridiculous Riot. The riot in east Boston on the Fourth between the spectators and the American Protective Association procession carrying "the little red schoolhouse," was a very silly outbreak.

Those who are antagonistic to the American Protective Association are not bound as a matter of principle to wage war upon the New England school-On the contrary, they should favor more schoolhouses and a better system of education as the best way to counteract the un-American secret society which seeks to revive the religious persecution of the past.

In the old days, during the generation before the war, Boston had several destructive riots growing out of the bad feeling between the Irish Catholics and the American Protestants, but for many years nothing of the kind has occurre until last Thursday. It is to be hoped that the New England metropolis is not going to take a step backward.

A Voice from South Carolina: Ex-Senator M. C. Butler, of South Carolina, has written a strong letter in favor of the free coinage of silver to Hon. Albert T. McNeal, of Bolivar, Tenn. Senator Butler had received the Hardeman county resolutions (to which The Constitution has already alluded), and he says:

They express as fully and clearly the They express as fully and clearly the present financial status and the appropriate remedy for financial evils as any statement I have read. It is amazing to me how patriotic men can fail to recognize where our trouble lies. After a careful study of the silver question for fifteen years, after listening to and reading all the debates in congress during that period of time. I am as thoroughly convinced as I have ever been in my life on any proposition that the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the present ratio of 16 to 1 by this government, and the repeal of the 30 nt tax on state bank circulation cial relief. The arguments in favor of these two propositions cannot and have not been successfully answered. Denunciment in an enlightened country, and yet we live in this boasted age of enlightene progress and civilization to hear the advo-cates of these measures denounced as "re-pudiationists" and "propagandists" of dis honest, cheap money, etc. It is the first time in the history of the world that silver coin has been branded as dishonest. As your resolutions suggest, gold and silver coin are the coins for the ultimate redemp paper issues. They are and have been used for that purpose, and comparatively speaking, for no other, until modern financial wiseacres decided that gold alone is suitable for such a function If all the paper currency now in circulation should be presented for redemption in gold, two-thirds of the holders would be away with their notes dishonored This government, with its seventy millions of population and vast undeveloped resources, could with safety and advantage enter alone upon the unlimited coinage of silver at our present ratio. Other commer-cial countries would soon adapt themselves to our policy in the mater of exchanges. These are strong words, but they are not too strong. Wherever there is to be found an advocate of the British gold standard one of two conclusions may be drawn. He is either selfishly interested in increasing the purchasing power of money at the expense of the toilers who produce the wealth of the country, or he is a man profoundly ignorant of the money question. No intelligent and impartial man can study the money question and continue to oppose the restoraion of silver

Senator Butler says he would shoulder his musket to protect the rights of person and property of rich men as readily as he would to protect the rights of th humblest man. But he declares that our government has no right in law or morals to so frame its laws and fix its policy as to afford to the rich advantages over those who are not rich. This, h thinks, we are doing when we make common cause with monarchial governments of the old world in outlawing silver and putting the official brand of condemnation of our government upon it. Senator Butler says that if silver was admitted to free coinage and the 10 per ent tax on state banks abolished, these institutions, revived and resuscitated would absorb every dollar of silver that our government could coin, and silver, equally with gold, would be the money of ultimate redemption.

The distinguished South Carolinian makes a plea for Mr. Carlisle that is worth considering. He says the secretary has been surrounded from the beginning with the most embarrassing environments. "He took possession of a treasury depleted-looted-by his immediate predecessor. He was confronte with a majority of his party in both branches of congress opposed to the single gold standard policy of his chief, and yet he has to carry out that policy or resign." This is a very neat apology for Mr. Carlisle, and we give it for what it may be worth. And yet, the truest friends of Mr. Carlisle must know and feel that he would be a very much greater man today, and with a much more promising future before him if he had resigned his office the moment he discovered that the democratic party was to be betrayed.

That Texas Story.

If the story in our news columns yes terday of the lynching of young Mr. Blackman by his sweetheart, Miss Bessie Harris, in Live Oak county, Texas turns out to be true, very few readers will hereafter dare to sneer at the improbability of the entertaining fiction furnished by such writers as Haggard and Gunter.

The little Texas episode is apparently so incredible, so utterly monstrous, that it would have been laughed to scorn if it had appeared in a novel. Other reports have reached us since the first account of the tragedy was published, and we must frankly confess that we are still unable to understand it. We are told that the girl was in love with Blackman, but when her jealousy was excited by the talk of her parents she agreed to aid her father in putting the young man out of the way, and actually took an active part in hanging him. Another account states that the young fellow was desperately in love with the girl and that she never hinted to him her suspicion that he was only flirting with her. She proposed as a test of his love, that he should allow her to string him up to a tree, promising to let him down before he was hurt. He consented and when Miss Harris began to pull at the free end of the rope her father appeared and aided her in keeping the victim suspended until he choked to death. The fair executioner informed the coroner's jury that Blackman died easily. and after he was quiet she cut him

Miss Harris expressed no regret and the seems to think that it was all right to accept damaging charges against her lover and murder him without giving him a chance to make a defense or an

If the summer girl is disposed to adopt such eccentric methods, the average young man will fight shy of her. It is not pleasant for a fellow to feel all the ime he is walking with a young lady in quiet place that she may take a notion to lynch him under the first convenient tree, and that the old man is hiding in the bushes ready to help his daughter.

Possibly Harris and his daughter are nsane. Perhaps the whole story is a fake. We hope that the latter will turn out to be the case, but the item has appeared in all the leading dailies of the country and it is to be feared that it is We seem destined to have an infinite variety of crime.

SILVER IN GEORGIA.

LaGrange Reporter: The Reporter has ever contended that the goldites argued in a circle when they contended that silver was a depreciated metal, and that, being was a depreciated metal, and that, being of inferior value as compared with gold, its free admission to the mints was not to be considered. If there were any reasons for this depreciation in the nature of the metal, or the quantity produced by the mines, we should not hesitate to accept the lower place given it; but when we remember that it began to go down in price only when it was demonetized by an act of congress, we ask ourselves, why this dis-orimination? The only possible reason was that silver was in the way of the men who wished to reduce the agricultural portions of the country to the point of virtual subjection to the money centers—in other words, to make the great mass of the people hewers of wood and drawers of water to the moneyed class.

Toccoa News: If legislation against silver

Toccoa News: If legislation against silver has caused the shrinkage of 50 per cent in values of all commodities, does it not conclusively prove that our money of final payment should be doubled in volume, and that this could and woulu be done by the repeal of that unfriendly legislation against silver—thus restoring it to its original position by providing for its coinage on an exact equality with gold? In a column of gossip in The Madisonian Miss Ellen Dortch, of Atlanta, says:

"A committee from the legislature is now busily engaged in revising the code. They are free silver men. Senator Boyd of Lumpkin, is, I believe, the only sound money man on the committee, and in consequence is very lonesome. J. H. Pittman, another member of the revising committee, expects to be solicitor general of the Coweta circuit one of these days. The only person now in the way is Tom Atkinson. If he can be persuaded to give Mr. Pittman the field his chances seem very good. But Mr. Pittman has been advised to stay out of the race if Tom Atkinson stays in.

Of congressman Livingston The Jackson

"Of course everybody knows that Livingston is no Arcadian gentleman, but is just one of the boys, and can do a thing before an Arcadian gentleman can comb his hair and adjust his toilet getting ready for the job. Lon showed the people he knows how to get there when he got congress to appropriate $200,000 for the Atlanta exposition. There is hardly another congressman in the south, we believe, who could have got the appropriation."

TALK OF THE TOWN. He got on the car lo front of Silverman's and grinned with delight as he observed that the only vacancy in the car was on a seat on which four lovely young women were sitting. He squeezed himself beside the prettiest one, on the outside. To whire around the nine-mile circle in the sunlight of the presence of four charming maidens was an experience to which he was not averse. For he was a masher. He prided himself on his qualities in this line. He stole a look at his four fair companons out of the corner of his eyes. They vere enchanting to

was a thing to his liking.

The conductor touched him on the arm and he fumbled hervously in his pocket for a nickel. The young ladles suddenly became very deeply interested in conversation and gazed intently in every direction save that of the conductor. politely for a moment. The young ladies cast a surprised glarge at the young man and instantly glanced away again.

He handed the conjuctor a quarter,

'Four." he said. He looked at the young ladies with renewed interest. If one of them would only drop her handkerchief He wished devoutly that he had the tasy faculty of starting conversations that some men have. However, an opportunity would offer itself presently and he would be in clover. Meantime the car was speeding around the circle. The young ladies still had lots to talk about.

The car whisked around the curve and started on its return to the city. The started on its return to the city. The con-ductor touched him on the arm again. The young ladies found their conversation more engrossing than ever. The young man handed over the quarter and was rewarded by four faint smiles. He was indeed getting on. If something would only rive him a chance to speak to one of them. It was no use to wait. "Charming day," he said, plucking us the courage to speak. Four steely glances were shot toward him by four young women whose attitude had suddenly become freezing. They withered him with their looks.

"Sir!" they cried indignantly.
He glanced confusedly at the other passengers and found himself the center of the amused glances of the entire crowd. He reddened and looked away. The young ladies continued to cast withering looks his direction.

"What Is Its Object?"

A delegate to the goldbug convention at Memphis prints an article in the cuckoo organ in Atlanta inquiring about the object of the silver convention to be held in Griffin. Fresh from what he supposes to be the goldbug victory in Memphis, he declares that "it is quite clear that the silver convention to be held in Griffin on July 18th is not a movement in the interest of the democratic party."

But before we begin to discuss the purport of a convention not yet held, let us inquire of this delegate to the goldbug convention held in Memphis if that affair was held in the interest of the democratic party. In that pied and motley concern democrats from the south were cheek by jowl with the bitterest repub-Beans, and they went through the convention hand in hand.

What was the object of a convention that was thus constituted? How can southern opinion or democratic action be influenced by a convention which was wide open to republicans, and of which republicans constituted a large element.

What respect can those democrats who believe in settling all differences on this and other questions within the party, have for the recommendations of a body which not only received with open arms the republican enemies of the democratic party, but allowed those republican enemies to dictate the platform?

The only reasonable explanation of such meetings as the goldbug convenm hold at Memphis is that they are in the interest of republican financial doctrines. They are leagues of recreant democrats and faithful republicans, who call upon the friends of the British gold standard to combine and strive for the perpetuation of that regardless of former political associations. This is a pleasing proposition to the republicans. It is an indorsement of one of the cardinal principles of their creed. They accept readily invitations from recreant democrats to aid in the advocacy of a policy which is theirs already, and which the republican party, steered by John Sherman, surreptitiously carried out.

We judge from the cuckoo and post master organs that the Memphis convention, held in the interest of the British' gold standard, and participated in by democratic officeholders and republican politicians, was a very patriotic affair, but that a convention to be participated in by the people of Georgiathe men who have made the democratic party invincible against republicanism in this state-is something to be frowned

Were party lines considered in the selection of delegates to the Memphis convention? Did the call for that convention or for the primaries to select delegates come through any recognized democratic authority? Was the Memphis convention a democratic convention? If not, why does one of the Atlanta delegates to the Memphis convention make a complaint in the cuckoo organ in regard to the Griffin convention? Matters have come to a pretty pass indeed when the claim is seriously made that it is all right for the goldbugs and the agents of Wall street to hold conventions to perfect their plans for robbing and swindling the producers of the country, but all wrong for the people to hold a convention for the purpose of making their desires known.

"What is the object of a convention that is thus being constituted?" asks the Memphis delegate from Atlanta. The objet is exactly and emphatically the reverse of that of the Memphis convention. That convention was held in the interests of the money power and was intended to aid the administration in its efforts to compel honest democrats to indorse the financial doctrines of John Sherman and the republicans. The Griffin convention is to be held simply and solely in the interests of the common people, and its purpose is to enable the people to organize against the schemes of gold sharks.

It is a convention that will have for its members some of the most distinguished democrats in Georgia-the men who give the democratic party in this state its brains and its influene.

A Discordant Note

We regret to find the patriotic doctrine of that great Virginian, Monroe, repudiated by a leading newspaper of his own

The Richmond Times suggests that the Venezuelans are very friendly with us just now because they hope that we enforce the Monroe doctrine and call a halt in England's seizure of South American territory. Our contemporary argues that it is no affair of ours whether England grabs Yenezuela's land or whether she lets it alone. It says that if Venezuela chose to cut loose from Spain and set up in business for herself she must fight her own battles and leave us to fight ours. The Times goes on to say:

And, in conclusion, we desire to say that it is our deliberate opinion the Hon, Colo-nel Livingston will create no excite-ment in the United States, even if he proves that Great Britain is about to seize hose gold and asphalt lands; but that t American people will be perfectly content to go on attending to their own business, even if this be so, and leave the Venezue-lans to attend to theirs in the best way that they can.

We feel safe in saying that these are not the sentiments of the American people. Congress has requested England to submit her boundary dispute with our southern neighbor to arbitration, and the majority of our statesmen, citizens and newspapers side with our plucky sister republic and favor the vigorous reassertion of the policy promulgated by President Monroe.

Shall we sit down quietly and allow the British to obtain control of Central and South America and fortify themselves at the entrance to the Nicaragua canal When did the Monroe doctrine which was aimed at just such aggressions be come a dead letter?

Venezuela is one of the most progressive of the South American republics She is bound to us by the ties of friendship and commercial interest, and it is a patriotic duty on our part to see that no European power destroys or despoils her. The policy advocated by The Richmond paper would soon leave us with-

It is said that anti-missionary riots have recently occurred in the Sechuan, Yunan and Kweichau provinces. An appeal has been made by some of the American missionaries to our government for protection, but our bad faith with China and our unjust exclusion of the Chinese from this country make it hard for us to interfere successfully. It looks now as though northern and western states might possibly be far better represented than the south. Should this prove to be true, the world would simply judge the south's failure to be due to its lack of resources as compared with other sections, and other sections would thus ge a magnificent advertisement to the disadvantage of the south. This is especially illustrated in the movement now on foot to transfer from California to Atlanta the spiendid exhibit prepared by that state for the midwinter California fair a year ago This exhibit is said to sound that made This exhibit is said to equal that made by California at the world's fâir at a cost of $500,000. The railroads have already of-fered $10,000 toward defraying the expenses of shipping the exhibit to Atlanta. The people of California, realizing the necessi-ty of working for immigration and of try-ing to stem the southward tide of popula-tion are taking up this matter with great tion, are taking up this matter with great enthusiasm. They are likely to come into the south with an exhibit which will prove such an advertisement for California as to draw to that state some of our own south

Our contemporary thinks that it is unfortunate for the south that our people rely too much upon the natural advantages of the country and do not realze the absolute necessity of eternal push and hustling and unending advertising in telling others what we already know. The southern states threw away their opportunity at the world's fair, and if hey now repeat their mistake they will ose the greatest advertisement which they have ever had the opportunity of

securing. The resolutions passed by the Houston business league declare that our exposition will be perhaps the best opportunity ever offered the southern states for a exhibition of their matchless products, the world's fair not excepted. Texas is urged to get ready for it without delay. and every city, town, commercial or-ganization and railway in the state has been requested to send delegates to the state convention in Houston on the 15th. in order that ways and means may be dveised for the proper representation of Texas at Atlanta. This is on the right-line. Besides the splendid exhibits from the north and west and from the Spanish-American and other countries, we are very anxious o see a fine display of the matchless reources of this region. It is our one chance to bring the outside world in touch with the south and it should not be neglected. If we could have things as we wish the advantages and attractions of the south should be presented at the exposition on a scale so extensive and magnificent that their would dazzle the world and tempt en erprise and capital from every quarter of the globe. The time is short and our neighbors should bestir themselves.

A Ridiculous Riot. The riot in east Boston on the Fourth between the spectators and the American Protective Association procession carrying "the little red schoolhouse, was a very silly outbreak.

Those who are antagonistic to the American Protective Association are not bound as a matter of principle to wage war upon the New England schoolhouse. On the contrary, they should favor more schoolhouses and a better system of education as the best way to counteract the un-American secret society which seeks to revive the religious ution of the past.

In the old days, during the generation before the war. Boston had several destructive riots growing out of the bad eeling between the Irish Catholics and the American Protestants, but for many years nothing of the kind has occurre until last Thursday. It is to be hoped that the New England metropolis is not going to take a step backward.

A Voice from South Carolina: Ex-Senator M. C. Butler, of South Carolina, has written a strong letter in favor of the free coinage of silver to Hon. Albert T. McNeal, of Bolivar, Tenn. Senator Butler had received the Hardeman county resolutions (to which The Constitution has already alluded), and he says: They express as fully and clearly the ate remedy for financial evils as any state ment I have read. It is amazing to me ful study of the silver question for fifteen years, after listening to and reading all e debates in congress during that time, I am as thoroughly convin I have ever been in my life on any proposition that the free and unlimited coinage per cent tax on state bank circulation would give us immediate and prompt financial relief. The arguments in favor of these two propositions cannot and have not been successfully answered. Denunciation and epithets do not constitute argu-ment in an enlightened country, and yet we live in this boasted age of enlightened progress and civilization to hear the advocates of these measures denounced as "re nists" and "propagandists" of dis honest, cheap money, etc. It is the first time in the history of the world that silver coin has been branded as dishonest. your resolutions suggest, coin are the coins for the tion of paper issues. They are and have always been used for that purpose, and comparatively speaking, for no other, until comparatively speaking, for no other, until modern financial wiseacres decided that gold alone is suitable for such a function. If all the paper currency now in circulation should be presented for redemption in gold, two-thirds of the holders would be turned away with their notes dishonored. This government with its expensive millions. This government, with its seventy millions of population and vast undeveloped sources, could with safety and advan ne upon the unlimited coinage of silver at our present ratio. Other commercial countries would soon adapt themselves to our policy in the mater of exchanges.

These are strong words, but they are not too strong. Wherever there is to be found an advocate of the British gold standard one of two conclusions may be drawn. He is either selfishly interested in increasing the purchasing power of money at the expense of the toilers who produce the wealth of the country, or ne is a man profoundly ignorant of the money question. No intelligent and impartial man can study the money question and continue to oppose the restora-

Senator Butler says he would shoulder his musket to protect the rights of person and property of rich men as readily as he would to protect the rights of the humblest man. But he declares that our government has no right in law or morals to so frame its laws and fix its policy as to afford to the rich advantages over those who are not rich. This, he thinks, we are doing when we make common cause with monarchial governments of the old world in outlawing silver and putting the official brand of condemnation of our government upon it. Senator Butler says that if silver was admitted to free coinage and the 10 per ent tax on state banks abolished, these institutions, revived and resuscitated, would absorb every dollar of silver that our government could coin, and silver, equally with gold, would be the money of ultimate redemption.

The distinguished South Carolinian makes a plea for Mr. Carlisle that is worth considering. He say's the secretary has been surrounded from the beginning with the most embarrassing environments. "He took possession of a treasury depleted-looted-by his immediate predecessor. He was confronted with a majority of his party in both branches of congress opposed to the single gold standard policy of his chief, and yet he has to carry out that policy or resign." This is a very neat apology for Mr. Carlisle, and we give it for what it may be worth. And yet, the truest friends of Mr. Carlisle must know and feel that he would be a very much greater man today, and with a much more promising future before him if he had resigned his office the moment he discovered that the democratic party was to be betrayed.

That Texas Story.

If the story in our news columns yes terday of the lynching of young Mr. Blackman by his sweetheart, Miss Bessie Harris, in Live Oak county, Texas, turns out to be true, very few readers will hereafter dare to sneer at the improbability of the entertaining fiction furnished by such writers as Haggard and Gunter. The little Texas episode is apparently so incredible, so utterly monstrous, that it would have been laughed to scorn if it had appeared in a novel. Other reports have reached us since the first account of the tragedy was published, and we must frankly confess that we are still unable to understand it. We are told that the girl was in love with Blackman, but when her jealousy was excited by the talk of her parents the young man out of the way, and actually took an active part in hanging him. Another account states that the young fellow was desperately in love with the girl and that she never hinted to him her suspicion that he was only flirting with her. She proposed as a test of his love, that he should allow her to string him up to a tree, promising to let him down before he was hurt. He consented and when Miss Harris began to pull at the free end of the rope her father appeared and aided her in keeping the victim suspended until he choked to death. The fair executioner informed the coroner's jury that Blackman died easily, and after he was quiet she cut him

Miss Harris expressed no regret and she seems to think that it was all right to accept damaging charges against her over and murder him without giving him a chance to make a defense or an explanation.

If the summer girl is disposed to adopt such eccentric methods, the average young man will fight shy of her. It is not pleasant for a fellow to feel all the time he is walking with a young lady in quiet place that she may take a notion to lynch him under the first convenient tree, and that the old man is hiding in the bushes ready to help his daughter.

Possibly Harris and his daughter are nsane. Perhaps the whole story is a fake. We hope that the latter will turn out to be the case, but the item has appeared in all the leading dailies of the country and it is to be feared that it is true. We seem destined to have an infinite variety of crime.

SILVER IN GEORGIA.

LaGrange Reporter: The Reporter has ever contended that the goldties argued in a circle when they contended that silver was a depreciated metal, and that, being of inferior value as compared with gold, its free admission to the mints was not to be considered. If there were any reasons for this depreciation in the nature of the metal, or the quantity produced by the mines, we should not hesitate to accept the lower place given it; but when we remember that it began to go down in price only when it was demonetized by an act of congress, we ask ourselves, why this disorimination? The only possible reason was that silver was in the way of the men who wished to reduce the agricultural portions of the country to the folint of virtual subjection to the money centers—in other words, to make the great mass of the people hewers of wood and drawers of water to the moneyed class.

Toccoa News: If legislation against silver

Toccoa News: If legislation against silver has caused the shrinkage of 50 per cent in values of all commodities, does it not conclusively prove that our money of final payment should be doubled in volume, and that this could and woulu be done by the repeal of that unfriendly legislation against silver—thus restoring it to its original position by providing for its coinage on an exact equality with gold? We think so?

Rochelle Solid South: The "me-too" gold-bug papers in our state contend that the 16 to 1 coinage of silver would give us but a fifty-cent dollar. They will not admit that remonetizing the metal would en-hance its value. MIDGE LUMPKIN WAS DISQUALIFIED

Yesterday Morning Judge Clark Signed an Order, However.

VENABLE MUST SHOW CAUSE JULY 12

The Petition Alleges That Mr. Venable Hammond Brotherton's Attorney.

Vesterday morning Judge Richard Clark acting upon a petition presented to him by Judge W. R. Hammond as attorney for Captain W. H. Brotherton, signed an or-der directing Hon. W. H. Venable to show by what authority he held office on the board of police commissioners.

The document, which is a short one but contains all the facts adhered to by Captain Brotherton's side of the question, was esented to Judge J. H. Lumpkin on ruesday, July 4th, but he adjudged him-self disqualified, and it was for this rea-son that Judge Richard clark signed the order directing Police Commissioner Ven-able to show cause before him on July 12th. This move on the part of these opposed to Commissioner Venable was in the nature of a surprise to the friends of Mr. Venable, as it was generally supposed that the matter had been dropped, but it is now said that there will be every effort made to oust him from the office he holds on the police commission and that some one has already been slated to succeed him.

The grounds upon which the petition is based are that Commissioner Venable is a state senator and that in accepting the election of the people to an office in the general assembly he voluntarily vacated the day he took the oath of office as state serator the position he now claims as police commissioner was vacated and has since been vacant and has not been legally

The move on the part of Captain Brotherton is the outgrowth of a disagreement among the police commissioners. There was an all-night session upon one occasion and several deadlocks. It was three or four days before a chairman could elected. Captain Jim English being defeated.

Some months ago the city attorney was called upon to prepare an opinion in the case. His opinion was never read. It was generally understood, however, that the city attorney held that Commissioner Venable was not eligible because of his having made contracts with the city in paving matters and this is against the city reg-

How the Petition Sounds.

Judge W. R. Hammond, acting attorney for Captain W. H. Brotherton, went before Judge Lumpkin on Thursday, July 4th, and presented the papers, Judge Lumpkin read the petition and decided that he was disqualtfied and signed the following

"I hold that I am disqualified." On yesterday morning Judge Hammond went before Judge Richard Clark and Judge Clark signed the order, setting the hearing before him on July 12th.

The petition reads as follows: "1. The petition of William H. Brotherton showeth that William H. Venable, of the county of Fulton, was elected to the office of police commissioner of the city of Atlanta on the first Monday in March, 1893, by the mayor and general council of Atlanta, and thereupon, after taking the eath of office as prescribed by law, entered upon the discharge of his duties of office as such police commissioner and has continued ever since that time to claim the right to exercise the duties and to perform the functions of said office and is now claiming the right to the same.

"2. After said W. H. Venable was so elected to said office, at the next general election for members of the general assembly of Georgia he was elected to the office of a member of the senate of the state of Georgia from the thirty-fifth senatorial district of said state and upon the meeting of the general assembly he entered on the duties of that office after taking the oath of office and is still a member thereof and claiming all the privileges and emoluments thereof.

3. Both of said offices are offices of trust and profit under the state of Georgia, and said Venable, by the acceptance of the office of member of the general assembly as aforesaid, resigned his said office of police commissioner and the said office then and there became vacant and is now va-

"4. Your petitioner is a citizen of the state of Georgia and the city of Atlanta and is a member of the said board of police commissioners and is therefore interested in said office.

"5. Wherefore, your petitioner prays that the state's most gracious writ of qou warranto do issue, requiring the said W. H. Venable to show by what authority he claims to exercise the functions and duties of said office of police commissioner of the city of Atlanta and to hold said office. "W. R. HAMMOND,

He is meeting with much success and the lovers of music in Atlanta have accorded him a most cordial welcome. Last night the leading musicians of the city met Mr. Beecher at the Aragon ar quite a pleasant informal meeting was held. Mr. Beecher stated that he intends to bring here one of the most eminent faculties that can be secured.

He said that he wished to establish the conservatory on a firm financial basis and will issue one hundred certificates valued at $100 each, which will be used as cash in the payment of tuition.

Many of these certificates have been pur-

There is nothing funny in Senator Stewart's proposition that the destruction of silver coinage is reducing the number o marriages. Is Expected This Afternoon.

HE SUCCEEDS COLONEL CHAPMAN

A Meeting with the Deputies Has Been Arranged-Colonel Chapman Goes to St. Louis.

The new internal revenue agent, who succeeds Colonel W. H. Chapman, is expected to reach the city this afternoon. A telegram was received from Revenue Agent Pitts to this effect yesterday afternoon. The message was wired to Colonel Chapman from Roanoke, Va. That is the point from which the new revenue agent has been transferred by the authorities at

If the reputation of the new official is any index of the manner in which the duties of the office will be discharged the people of Atlanta, and especially those whose business will bring them in touch with the revenue agent, have cause for congratulation.

The fact that Mr. Pitts is a Virginian and comes directly from that state, is much in the way of a recommendation. The government has dealt kindly with the district in sending a Virginian to Atlanta to succeed a Virginian, for Colonel Chap-man is himself a native of that state and proved a daring and dashing officer during Pitts is represented by those who have seen him as a large, massively built have seen him as a large, massively built and handsome gentleman, with a supply of reserve strength equal to any emergency that his new duties may thrust upon him. He has been connected with the revenue service for several years and his efficient work in that department has clearly demonstrated his fitness to succeed Colonel Chapmen.

His duties in Atlanta will be extremely difficult. "He will have supervision of the states of Georgia, Alabama and Florida. The revenue business in each of these states amounts to guite a considerable item states amounts to quite a considerable item but, in addition to the common routine, the new agent will have to deal with the whitecap element in north Georgia.

Colonel Chapman, however, has left very little for the new agent to do in this line. He has made a vigorous crusade against the organization and has brought its principal members to grief Nearly all the cipal members to grief. Nearly all the kuklux conspirators have been safely landed in the Ohio penitentiary and the spirit of resistance among the north Georgia mountaineers has been completely sub-dued. It is safe to predict that no further depredations will be committed by the gang. Colonel Chapman is entitled to much of the credit that is due on ac-count of this happy state of things. He has made a thorough investigation of the has made a thorough investigation of the whitecap outrages in north Georgia and no rumor has come to him of crimes committed by the whitecap band that has not been traced to its original source. The district loses a valuable officer in Colonel Chapman, but the government is too appreciative to sacrifice a good man, and for that reason he has simply been transferred to another district.

Everything in Order. Colonel Chapman has arranged the busi-iess of the office in such a way that the new revenue agent will have little difficulty in getting down to work. The entire force of deputies will meet the new agent, by special appointment,

Mr. Pitts in his telegram to Colonel Chapman yesterday intimated his desire to meet the deputies.

M'ss Mary McNaught will also be on deck. The members of the force are look-ing forward with much interest to the ar-rival of the new agent. He will be given cordial reception and every effort will be made to make him feel at home. On to St. Louis. Colonel W. H. Chapman will leave for St. Louis as soon as the new agent is formally installed and gives his receipt for the documents on file in the revenue agent's office. He will occupy a more important office in the west than the one he gives up in this city. He will have supervision of six of the largest states of the northwest and his duties will carry him over quite an extensive territory.

"I shall not take my family with me on his trip," said Colonel Change look over the field and find a suitable look over the neid and find a suitable place for a home and after this I will re-turn for my wife and children. It has been extremely gratifying to me to receive so many cordial good wishes from my friends in Atlanta who have been kind enough to express their regret at my going. I had no idea that I had so many of them."
Colonel Chapman will leave for St. Louis during the early part of the week.

The report of Major E. A. Garlington who recently made a tour of all the military posts in the south, ranks the institution at which Lieutenant Jenkins is stationed as having the best trained corps of cadets in the United States.

Lieutenant Jenkins was in Atlanta yest terday. He stopped off during the day at the Kimball with Lleutenant Brown Last night both officers left for Meldrim, where they have been detailed to look after the cavalry encampment there.

"Georgia has & well trained corps of militia," said Lieutenant Brown. "There is no other state in the south in which the military spirit has revived to such a marked degree. The state encampments in both South Carolina and Georgia have accomplished a wreat deal but there is accomplished a great deal, but there is one thing wanting which I hope to see effected before very long. It very fre-quently happens that members in the vol-unteer service are handicapped by splenetic employers who do not appreciate the value of military training. The work of the militia is impaired. I want to see the time when Georgia and South Carolina shall enact laws enforcing employers to re-lease the members of the military companies whenever there comes a call from

"It would be a good thing if the offense for disregarding the order of the state militia was penalized in the southern states.'

Professor Euler B. Smith, of Athens, came to the Kimball yesterday. He will leave, this morning for Denver, Col., where he will attend the teachers' convention.

As a classical scholar Professor Smith has few equals. He is a humorist, too, in his quiet, gentle way. Here is one of his that will make the western pedagogues

"We sometimes run up on genius in the most unexpected places," he said last night, meditatively twisting the ends of his heavy black mustache. "There's a colored porte running into Atlanta who has committee to memory all of the big words in the dic tionary. He flaunts his heterogenous phraseology in the most unexpected man

"A lady was on her way from Atlanta to Athens the other day. The porter

"'Does the train stop at Lawrenceville? she asked. "No, ma'm, the train does not stop at Lawrenceville. It does not even hesitate." Quite a delegation of Atlanta teachers will go with Professor Smith. Hon. Hal Lewis, of Greenesboro, stepped up to the cigar stand and began to look over a box of fresh imported. "You see," he said, "that there are more ways than one of telling a good cigar. There's not everything in the scent of the weed. Give me a cigar with a soft downy fur on the outside.

"But that's not what I was talking on. Of course, throughout the section where I have been the silver sentiment is strong. There was a meeting held in my county several days ago and a strong delegation selected for the Griffin convention. There will be many of our most prominent democrats there. I am going if possible. There will be some affairs in the

If possible I will be there. The people of my section have long since realized the fact that the free and unlimited coinage of silver is the only solution to the money question.
"It will sweep the state like a whirl-wind."

Colonel Hal will be in Atlanta for some

Colonel Goodloe Yancey, the erstwhile military genius of the Clarke County Rifles, came over yesterday from the Classic City to bide a wee with his host of friends here. Colonel Yancey is a stanch friend of the university.

"I'll venture to say that there will be the largest attendance at the next session of the college than any in its history. There is a more loyal spirit among Georgians than ever before, and they are pushing their efforts to build up the university

"The tendency toward healthy athletic sports has also conduced to bring out a feeling among the youth of the country that they would like to participate in such wholesome enjoyment. They also realize the fact that the university is fast un building its standard and will rank w the greatest institutions in the land during the next few years."

When Basil Wise, the handsome young insurance man from Macon, stepped into the Kimball yesterday morning Ed Calloway asked him about the neach carnivals "It's a success," said Mr. Wise. "Rather early yet for the best fruit, but I never gazed upon such a beautiful assortment. I've seen artistic things before. I've gazed with rapture upon famous chef d'ouvres of foreign masters. I've seen the soft flush of the Italian sunsets. I've looked on the heart-hued cheeks of a lovely girl, and viewed the rosy tints of early dawn, but for real beauty, nature eclipsed all her charms when the Georgia peach, with its soft delicate glow, was made.'

Ed Calloway wanted to know whether it was from Milton or Bret Harte. Without noticing the interruption Mr. Wise entered into an apostrophe to the Georgia peach. He declares that all Macon-ites are inflated or rather inspired with the same sentiments.

Hon. Josiah Patterson thinks Atlanta is a great city and that The Constitution is a a great city and that The Constitution is a great newspaper.

"I have been driven over both sides of your city," said he, "and it is, I find, in addition to being a live, progressive city, a beautiful city. You have many lovely residences here, and your streets are pleasing to look upon. I have driven over Peachtree and Washington streets and have been very much impressed with their beauty. I like the outlook for your exposition, too. I am coming to the exposition and will bring Mrs. Patterson with me."

The congressman leaves for Augusta this afternoon, where he will speak Monday night.

Mr. Henry Heartwell, a man of fame, tripped into Atlanta yesterday with a grip sack and a grin.

Among traveling men there is no more conspicuous figure than he. His jokes are as fresh as the sea breezes that have toyed with his tresses for the last two weeks. He left last night for Richmond.

Mr. J. Monroe Ogden, of Macon, is at the Aragon. He is a lawyer of ability, but his talents have also asserted them-selves in the histrionic line. In all the amateur theatricals in the Central City he is the acknowledged star.

Judge William D. Stone, of Griffin, arrived in Atlanta yesterday afternoon, fie is at the Kimball. Colonel I. O. Cotton and Mr. I. Y. Allen of Thomaston, are registered at the Kimball. They will return this morning.

Colonel A. C. McCalla, a well-known law yer of Conyers, is at the Hotel Marion. Sheriff Calloway, recently nominated for president in the campaign of 1806, came to town yesterday morning. He is fresh from a Fourth of July barbecue. During the exposition the joily sheriff will be engaged as special chef for the barbecue season.

Hon. D. C. Bacon, of Savannah, is at the Aragon.

Hon. A. S. Clay came down from Mari-etta yesterday to attend the silver caucus last night.

The dirt dumping was done under a decree of the United States court, which was granted in April, but which has not been enforced by the road, as the management thought that the street car company peo-ple would stand by a contract made. When the East Lake branch-off of the Atlanta Traction Company line was built the owners secured the right of way to East Lake. In this right of way it became necessary to go under the Georgia road. The street car company was permitted to put up some trestle work by way of temporary work.

There was, however, a contract made be-

This contract was that the street car line was to build a strong bridge for the Georgia trains to go over and that the walls were to be of stone. This the street

The matter went along and the street car company was given the opportunity to still carry out the contract. This matter was kept up until the railroad authorities thought the place dangerous. The decree of court also provided that it should be filled in at the expense of the street car company. The Georgia road and the Georgia, Carolina and Northern were interested and early this morning the dirt was thrown in.

Fourth of July Celebrants Told Their Tales of Woe Yesterday.

HEARD BY ACTING RECORDER NELMS

The Police Court Was an Important Instiution Yesterday - Over One Hun-dred Cases of Various Sorts.

The Fourth of July round up in the police court yesterday was one of the largest that has ever been held in the court.

The courtroom was packed and crowded by the many offenders, their witnesses and the spectators, the latter being present in unusually large numbers.,

Dr. John W. Nelms, councilman from the seventh ward, presided over the court and he did so greatly to the delight of the ience and the regret of the prisoners. He frequently took occasion to lecture the hilarious patriots, approving their patriotism, but censuring their indiscriminate violation of the laws. He went at once into the facts of the cases and rarely failed to bring out every bit of evidence that in any way affected the guilt or innocence of unfortunates.

Clerk Wynee had his hands full, and found it difficult to keep track of the numerous fines, prisoners and papers.

Over 100 Cases. About one hundred and twenty-five case were on the books when the court began its grind yesterday morning, and despite the fact that it was in session nearly all day and until after dark last night, the docket was not cleared and many of the celebrants were held over at the station proceedings were interspersed with the usual humorous incidents of the polic court and were more picturesque usual on account of the various and many excuses offered by the offenders as to why they insisted in celebrating the glorius ourth in a disorderly manner. They pleaded every cause imaginable, few of which were accepted by the court, the rule being the usual fines for certain offenses. The stockade wagon was kept running to and from the station house until a late hour last night hauling out the unfortunates who had been fined and who were unable to pay their fines. The prison room was cleared as often as the wagon could go

The station house officers were kept in a rush all day and until late last night clearing up the business of the Fourth, and when their labor ceased they annound ed ready to get along in the usual run of things until the next Fourth.

Most of the cases before the court were for petty violations of the lordinances, such as plain drunks, disorderly conduct and shooting firecrackers in the streets, A great many of the offenders paid their fines and the city realized a neat sum by the celebation of the day.

COULDN'T GET HIS COLLARS. Chinee and Cuffy Fight About Cuffy's Collar.

John Chung Lung, a Mitchell street Chinese laundryman, and Ed Ogletree, colored, were among the Fourth of July disorderlies. They were arraigned in the police court yesterday afternoon on a charge of rderly conduct.

Lung and the negro got in a small battle at the laundry of the former on the Fourth, during which the Mongolian came out second best. He was badly bruised and beaten up and was a sorry looking individual when he appeared in court accompanied by two of his countrymen and his attorney, Mr. W. T. Moyers.

The negro and the Chinaman got into a fight about two collars. When the telegram was received in this effy several days ago signed with the initials of John S. Smith, and addressed to his wife, every one breathed easily and thought that the mystery had been fathom-ed. The message that came over the wires was dated Juarez, Mexico, and it requested that his wife come to him.

Now a new story is affoat as to Smith's whereabouts, and instead of being fanned by the breezes of Mexico, rumor says by the breezes of Mexico, rumor says that he is enjoying the exciting scenes of New York's Bowery. This story is the latest and is just about as plausible as any of the theories that have been ad-

It is very probable that Smith did go to Mexico and there is but little doubt but that the message to his wife from that place was signed by none other than himself. Since he placed the message in the telegraph office of that place he has had ample opportunity to cross the continent. It has been said that he has wired from New York and the message was received in a small town near this city and delivered to his wife through a friend.

If such was the case, it is evident that Smith became alarmed after he discovered his first message had been made public and consequently he decided to change his

AROUND THE CITY HOTELS.

Colonel Leonidas F. Livingston, congress man from the fifth Georgia district, was here the other day, on his way down to his plantation home beyond Covington, having just returned from Venezuela. The colonel was looking well and was in the best of humors, despite the tilt with seasickness he had all the way going and coming. "It was an interesting study to me," said

Colonel Livingston, "to contrast the form of government they have in Venezuela with our own. They have in that republic nine states, each of which has a president, or governor. Then they have a president of the nation and a cabinet; but these governors constitute what is known as an executive council, and they have to pass upon every measure. It is strange that they allow the president and cabinet legislative as well as executive power. There are a great many safeguards put about him, but the president, after all, has a great deal of power, and whatever he says for the most part goes. President Crespo is what we would term a native, self-made man—a man who is very strong with the masses of the people, but not so much so with the ad more aristocratic, haughty There is a great effort being made to put him out of office, and it is said that ex-President Bianco, who is now an exile in Paris, having been deposed from power and Crespo put in his place, is supposed to be behind the movement. It it thought too, that England is doing all she can to depose Crespo, that country being so anxious for the trade of the country and for its commercial usurpation.

"Venezuela is unquestionably the strong-est and richest of the group of states to the south of us. But the encroachments of England have been regular and rapid. While that country is not charged with open methods, it seems to be pretty generto grasp absolutely the trade of the re-

"This people, with all the unlimited 'resources with which they have been blessed by nature, have not a stable government. They need immigration from ernment. They need immigration from such countries as the United States, Germany and other thrifty nationalities. They want more railroads; they want their mines opened; they want their fertile valleys cultivated under the scientific touch of modern farming; they need new life. They have every climate under the sun, by reason of the varied altitude of their country.

"A good joke was told by the captain of the vessel returning from Venezuela," re-sumed Colonel Livingston, after a slight pause, "which serves to illustrate how hot it is in that country at certain points down in the valleys. He says a native once left Venezuela and went to New York. The cold climate caused his death, and in his will he asked that he should be cremated. This was done, and while the crematory was still hot and the friends solemnly went to take out the ashes and bury them in mnity, much to their amazement they found the man sitting up in the furnace. 'For goodness' sake shut that do that draft you let in is simply terrible,' der the home-like influences of the furnace.

"But for the most part the climate of Venezuela is good—cool and pleasant. It rains there half the year, and the rainy season was just beginning when I was

Judge Lumpkin Adjourned Court Yesterday Until the Fall Term.

A NEW GRAND JURY WAS SELECTED

Judge Clark Refused To Grant an Injunction Against the Atlanta Electric Railway Company.

After a severe day's work yesterday Judge

Lumpkin adjourned court at 2 o'clock until the first Monday in September. Having adjourned court, Judge Lumpkin will prepare for a little vacation which he has had in view, and will spend several weeks recuperating. In the meantime, he will still be at work despite the fact that he has given out that he will be on a vacation. In order to prepare matters so that he can work, Judge Lumpkin has signed a vacation decision

This order is signed by the judge to give himself the right to send in decisions during the vacation months. It states that there are so many decisions to be rendered that it is impossible for the presiding judge to send them in before the term of court ended and therefore the order is taken. Among the orders granted yesterday morning by Judge Lumpkin was one in which he decreed the sale of property owned by George E. Hoppie, who was once a well-known Atlanta financier, but who is now in New York. The receiver of Mr. Hoppie's estate is Mr. W. F. Manry, The order provides for the sale of the Belmon hotel on Walton street. The sale of this will probably bring something like $45,900 into court. Other property to the amount of $3,000 will be sold. The money will be distributed among the creditors, of whom Messrs. King & Spalding represent a large per cent.

Before adjourning court yesterday, Judge Lumpkin selected the grand jury for the next term of court. The grand jury is a splendid one and will be made up as fol-

Judge Clark refused to grant the injunction. By some coincidence, in less than an hour after the case was concluded the first car was sent spinning over the branch line which runs from the Traction company's Grant park line to the old watervorks. By the first of next week a regular schedule will be put on.

When the Dayton Hale Investment Com pany, Dayton Hele and others sought to get certain rights of way in the city, the Consolidated began a fight on the road. The Consolidated, through its attorneys, N. J. & T. A. Hammond, brought an injunction out. It was claimed by the Consolidated that the city had no right to lease the waterworks to the Dayton Hale Investment Company as such an ac was ultra vires, not being authorized by charter. The Consolidated claimed that it was a partnership between the city and the Hale Investment Company, It was also urged that the Atlanta Electric Rail-Company had not obtained a legal

The ladies are now making arrangements whereby easy, comfortable chairs will be placed in the hospital for the use of the convalescent patients. The chairs now in use are not as comfortable as the ladie desire, and these will be removed and the new ones substituted.

The society now has on hand $4,000, which has been raised for the children's ward They need about $2,000 more and are taking active steps to raise this amount by subscription. The children's ward will be an annex to the main building and will cost $6,000. It will be a beautiful building and will add much to the appearance of the

For and About Women

The New York papers are proud of the straight legs of New York's children. At least, The Press says so, and The Press ought to know. The subject of legs is brought up by a discussion with Cincinnati. The Press enters into the discussion with both feetand presumably both legs-and in a leading editorial bearing the edifying title "High Art in Legs," says:

High Art in Legs.
"There are not a dozen bow-legged children in the entire town. Bandy-legged men and women are unknown. If they do exist here, it is evident that they never emerge from the privacy of their chambers. Maybe it's the lime in our Croton water that hardens the bones of our young; perhaps it is the tender care the mothers of New York take of their offspring. It may be our innate sense of moral rectitude which makes us erect in spite of our-selves. Be this as it may, the Cincinnati woman who has suggested that New York put piles of sand in the streets upon which children can play has offered a gratuitous affront to our citizens and to Colonel Waring. There is no reason to doubt that the children of Cincinnati are bow-legged. For reason unexplainable her citizens have advertised the fact widely; they seem proud of it. They want an anxious world to know that Cincinnati has peppered the streets with sand whereon the young persons of her precincts can stretch their missnapen legs in expectation of straightening them to the rigidity of parallel bars. Wilmington, also, appears to have found much comfort in the fact that, in a generic sense, she is bandy-legged. A bow-legged men's club has been organized there upon the legs possess the true curve of beauty. In New York we know better than this. We invite Cincinnati and Wilmington to visit

Amid the world-encircling rejoicings over the seventy-sixth birthday anniversary of Queen Victoria it would be the rankest of ingratitude to forget the memory of the queen's mother, to whose sacrifiecs Eng-land and the world owe the blameless life of their long-reigning severeign, writes a woman in The Philadelphia Record. Her majesty's father, the duke of Kent, who was George III's fourth and most respect-ed son, died when the future queen was only six months old. Her widowed mother then became Victoria's sole guardian. She utterly refused to allow either George IV, or William IV to control her daughter's education. Despite commands and curses, the courageous duchess, a stranger in a strange land, persecuted and derided, kept the young princess from the sorry courts of her uncle, George IV, and of the eccentric and passionate William IV. In saving Victoria from her uncles the duchess of Kent gave England an irreproachable

A Fair Sample of Musical Judgment It is a strange commentary on the fali-bility of music criticism that in 1831, the late and highly eminent judge, H. F. Charley, declared that "Mme. Patti's voice is developed to the uttermost, so that anybody might fancy he was listening to a singer past her prime." That dogmatic opinion was written thirty-four years ago, when the diva first appeared in Covent Garden. Hilary Bell, himself the most delightful of critics, calls attention to the criticism and adds: "Yet this season, if we may believe all that is said by a newer race of English critics, Patti is singing better than ever before, and all London is in enthusiasm over her. The diva, by the way, has been telling certain interesting incidents of her early history to the London newspapers. She declares that her first appearance in opera took place at the age of eight years, but even prior to that date she sang solos in the concerts of Gott-schalk, the famous planist. It was only when M. Strakosch, who married her sis-ter. Amalla, found that these premature efforts were injuring the child's voice that her efforts were suspended. Adelina studied for several years before she made her serious debut in grand opera as Lucia de Lammermoor at the Academy of Music in this city. She was then sixteen years old, and ever since she has been the prima donna assoluta of the modern operatic stage. It would not be polite to state Mme. Patti's present age, but even through the opera glass she can pass for five and twen-

How He Won Cissie. The story of how Young Justin McCarthy Won for his wife Cissie Loftus—don't make the mistake of thinking I mean that other Cissie whose golden hair hangs down her back as she winks that other eye—is going able rounds. Cissie was in the London music halls doing her clever imitation. music halls doing her clever imitation, when the talented young Irishman saw her, and in The Gentleman's Magazine says: "It would be difficult to overrate the charm that the presence of Miss Loftus lends to the scene and to the stage. Her youth and beauty would in themselves be enough to recommend her to the frequences of a theater where youth and beauty are highly rated. But Miss Loftus attracts not by her accordance with, but by the convest to, her surroundings. In the heat and glare of color, in the assertion of raudy dresses, the emphasis of a vartered deense half pale, trenguil, darkhaired girl come has an in reaction of candor and emphasity and the audacity of a chartered ficense half an in reaction of candor and emphasity and the dees grace of youth. She moves attracts with the ingenuous self-possession of spring, to all appearance unconscious of her beauty and heedless of applause, a living allegory of Arcadian innocence, passing with unstained serenity through the saturnalia of a masquerade. A nymph of the woods, a sister of the society of Artemis, could seem less out of place at a witches' Sabbath than this quiet child in the delirium of a gayety burleyup. bath than this quiet child in the delirium of a gayety burlesque. It was a stroke of genius on the part of the management to put her there. It gave to a familiar en-tertainment a new and subtle fivor, a quality of pleasure unfamiliar to the time and the place, a pleasure like that which the coolness and the cleanness of the dawn affords after long hours of revel. But there is something melancholy, if there is not something cruel, in the pleas-ure which this contrast offers. It is gained at a great expense; the sacrifice is well at a great expense; the sacrifice is well nigh inevitable; it seems impossible that the freshness which makes the contrast so sharp can, under the conditions, endure. A nameless poet in the Greek Anthology. in his rapture over a statue of the sleep ariadne, implores the beholders not to come too near, lest by their touch they should stir the image from its slumber to life and the hurt of life. It is to be hoped that daily contact with the wild business of burlesque will not arouse Miss Loftus from her simplicity, from her reserve, from her coal sweet inverserings and charge her cool, sweet inexperience, and change her from that which she is into anything less modest and refinedand admirable." Of course that won the little actress. I hear, by the way, that Mr. McCarthy no longer draws salary from Mr. Daly. He is, however, able to take care of himself, and

Two Women Who Look Cool. There are two women who always look perfectly cool no matter how hot the day may be, and these are a sister of charity and a quakeress, says The Ladles' Home Journal. Yet neither of them can be said

Journal. Yet neither of them can be said to wear garments that are cool to the touch or light in weight. They say that keeping cool is being dressed according to your position in life and keeping calm.

The nervous, excited woman is always warmer than anybody else, and so, after all, it may be that the secret of perfect coolness is perfect calmness. However, I think a smooth, well-arranged coiffure, a gown suited to one's self, one's position, the place and the season and belongings the place and the season and belongings in harmony with the gown do much to make a woman satisfied with hersels, and end to give her the degired

A Lot of Shouldn'ts. Somebody has compiled a lot of shouldn'ts" that are going the roungs. Here are some of them:
You shouldn't carry a flower, lace or chiffon-trimmed parasol in town except for arriage use.

You shouldn't allow your dressmaker : stiffen your summer gowns except with the very lightest and most pliable material. You shouldn't year high stock colla with bows, which make you look as your head was tied on—they are passee.
You shouldn't have your gown meas more than seven yards around the hem five and a half if you are small, four and half if you are sensible and small.

The girls can tell their brothers and beau that they shouldn't wear cuff buttons they wish to be "English, you know." The latest fad is to fasten the cuffs with a bow of narrow black satin ribbon, leaving the ends about four inches long.

You shouldn't wear a cloth cap in the summer either for cycling, goff or tennis. It collects the dust and is very warm; stray or dust is more up-to-date and comfortable. You shouldn't ignore fashion altogether. You needn't be in the fashion if you do not want to and happen to be an excep-tionably pretty woman.

You shouldn't be extreme. You shouldn't wear tan shoes with silk or any dressy gown.
You shouldn't sacrifice your individuality

You shouldn't sacrince your individuality at the shrine of fashion.
You shouldn't wear a silk or satin bodice with a linen coat and skirt.
You shouldn't wear a figral collar if your shouldn't wear a figral collar if your complexion is faded or inclined to yel-

Redfern says you shouldn't wear bloomer without a skirt unless you wish to look vulgar. You shouldn't wear silk or velvet for traveling; washable materials or brillantine

Passing Wisdom, One of the commonest forms of feminine egorism is to imagine that morbid thinking, born of personal ill-humor, indicates a philosophic mind. The woman whose pessimism springs from personal moodiness is no philosopher and is a disagreeable companion in the bargain.

If you would be popular, it is wiser to laugh at the jokes of others than to make jokes of your own. Most people prefer to be considered entertaining rather than to be entertained. This is a fortunate provision for the comfort of the mentally indo-

If you wish to be regarded as brilliant If you wish to be regarded as unast make a study of the art of epigrams. Many worthy persons have come to regard it as an insult to their intellect if they are not required to solve a paradox or two in every sentence. It is the maturer form of the childish fondness for solving conundrums and guessing riddles, and it is as prevalent just now as the mechanical puzzic rage.

White gloves are worn with the smartest tollets for day wear. Those of kid stitched with black are more fressy and stylish than the chameis, which are relegated almost entirely to traveling and driving wear. The Biarrits style free much used, though the tight wrist with large white buttons are also fashionably worn. These white sloves clean beautifully, and are not so extravagant as tiley seem at first thought, on this account. One pair will admit of repeated cleanings.

A novelty to wear with an Eton suit of black satin trimmed with jet bands is a shirt waist of pink or yellow taffela, belted in at the walst, the wide box plait in front and the collar covered with a jetted lace insertion. Below the jet girdle is a soft plaited frill of the taffeta. It has the effect of a little added basque, and is very becoming to a slender figure, taking away the plain appearance at the top of the skirt.

For an outing suit, blue English serge seems to lose not a bit of its former favor. Many handsome shades of green and brown are worn, but blue holds its own in spite of its many beautiful rival dyes, and at a highly fashlonable gathering in Paris, a returned tourist says, blue costumes in every made were most prominent, and worn by the wealthiest and best dressed women that were present, blue cloth, crepon, serge and French camel's hair all appearing.

crepon, serge and French camel's hair all appearing.

Medium and narrow black and white striped taffeta silks and satins are in steady request, but the large stripes are not favored, Large black plaids in black and white taffeta are highly popular blouse waists to wear with black satin skirts. Taffeta still leads in favor as a lining for skirts and bodices, though merchants constantly suggest soft firm surrahs, either plian or chanageable. These certainly wear better that taffetas, but they lack the gentle swish of the silk that nearly all women still like.

Chicago Gas the Weak Spot in Stocks Yes terday, the Balance of the List Ciosing Higher-Wheat Lower.

New York, July 5.—Chicago Gas was the one weak spot of the stock market today. There was a continuous outpouring of long stock which enabled the bears to continue their raids and establish a lower range of prices. The stock sold down to 59% shortly after the opening. After rising to 61 in sympathy with the general market, it dropped to 59% @60%, a net loss for the day of about a point. The sale of nivestment holdings was explained by the prevalent belief based on semi-official statements that the company may have a suspend dividends for a time owing to its fequirements to pay for new construction. The weakness of Chicago Gas was in marked contrast to the strength of the seneral market which imprices. The stock sold down to 59% shortly strength of the general market, which im-proved slowly but steadily from the opening to the close of business. The Grangers were the special favorites and advanced ½ to 1% per cent, leaving off at about the top. It transpires that a heavy short interest was recently made in this group for the account of speculators who made the attack upon the industrials last week, and who have since experienced considerable difficulty in covering their contracts. The bullish tem-per of speculation was brought out strongly by the fact that the weakness of Chicago Gas had no influence on the other Indust-rials, which were equally as strong as the railways. Sugar advanced 2% to 1121/6; To-bacco 1% to 1131/6; Leather 1 to 201/6; Rubber % to 411/4, and Distilling 1% to 221/4. The rise in the last named was due to advices that Judge Showalter had entered the decree for the judicial sale of the company's property to the reorganization committee. It is stated that the former management, under the leadership of ex-President Greenhut, neadership of ex-Fresident Greennut, while contest the decree. Among the specialities Metropolitan Traction rose 2% to 102%; Colorado Fuel and Iron 2% to 41% and preferred 3 to 93, while Great Northern preferred dropped 4 to 130. The Vanderbilt stocks were quoted ex-dividend today. Speculation left off strong in tone. Net changes show advances at the strong to the contract of the strong to the contract of the strong to vances of ½ to 1½ per cent, Rock Island leading. In the Industrials the advance was equal to ¼@2½ per cent, Sugar leading. Chicago Gas fell %. In the inactive list Colorado Fuel preferred rose 3 to 93.

33,800 shares were Sugar, 29,250 Distillers and 28,900 Chicago Gas.

Early Morning Gossip.

Dow, Jones News Company, by Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager: Mr. Vell was apparently the largest seller of Chicago Gas. There appeared to be western selling and rumors in the that if Gas proved to be a non-dividend stock it would work lower. The rumor of a new Chicago syndicate in control was re-garded as possibly true in the sense that, as some of the Standard Oil interests had sold, the Chicago party must be the dominant interest.

The Exchange Situation. From The Wall Street Journal.

Mr. J. P. Morgan stated yesterday to a caller who inquired whether there was any danger of gold exports that the syndicate was supplying exchange where it was needed, and would continue to do so. We understand that the syndicate recognizes the fact that certain banking firms have a legitimate grievance in respect to their counter trade, and it is probable that in the future efforts will be made to minimize this grievance. It is impossible to find among the representative and responsible exchange houses in this city a single one who believes that exports of gold will be necessary. All are unanimous on the point that the syndicate is quite equal to the sittation.

It would not be surprising, indeed, if exchange were to advance even further than it has done so far. The disinclination to ship gold is so widespread and so marked that there would really be very little risk of any exports even were exchange I cent per pound higher than it is at present. Some barkers think that it may be the policy of the syndicate gradually to advance rates as the market will stand it. Obviously it matters nothing to an exchange bank doing a large counter business what rate exchange sells at, because the exchange bank is hardly likely to be doing anything at the present time beyond turning over exchange at a small profit. The syndicate could easily put up rates by taking care that other exchange bankers got their exchange on terms which would permit them to keep their own counter trade.

The plain fact is that nobody need ship.

New York, July 5.—Spot sales in Liverpool for two days have been only 16,000 bales and futures have declined 3 to 3½ points in that market. Private cables say that Manchester business is unsatisfactory and no improvement is lobked for until there is an increased demand from the east. Spinners are anxious to sell as their stocks of yarns are accumulating. In fact all news from abroad favored the bears. Our market opened down about 4 points, 6.90 bid for August. After declining a little further the market rallied to 6.92 for August. Former bulls had become discouraged, however, and began spilling out their holdings, causing a quick drop to 6.88. This weakness being removed prices again rallied to almost the highest, 6.91, and then sold off to 6.89 at the close Sales of the day were 128,000 bales. Spot cotton in New York was down 1-16c., midling 7½c. There was much unfavorable news from Texas, the same old story of too much rain and fields being abandoned on account of grass and weeds, but better reports were received from other sections of the cotton belt and weather predictions generally for the next twenty-four hours are good.

New York, July 5.—The opening call today showed the presence of many selling orders accumulated over the holiday, and those with more favorable weather news in the south and a decline in Liverpool were more than the market could absorb without a decline. Liverpool quotations were at the close 3½ points below those of Wednesday and our prices at the lowest. In the foremon they touched 6.86 for August, or 8 points under Wednesday afternoon. While a fair volume of business was done at the opening, trading since that time has been relatively light. Weather conditions are considered as improved and the trade is waiting new developments. The market is a small one, and readily moved in either direction. The special features of the day have been the frequent selling for New Orleans account, and under this prices have declined. When it ceased there was a partial recovery of the loss. The bears are again gaining hope, which the lack of buying orders appears to justify. The market waits with great interest the publication of the bureau report of next Wednesday. No particular item can be found in the afternoon trading excepting the offering of cotton by New Orleans brokers. The market stands this fairly well and is steady in spite of the depressing efforts.

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter. Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, July 5.—(Special.)—A break in Liverpool today caused lower prices here. Sut the market showed good power of resistance at the decline, and the fluctuations of the day, though frequent, were within narrow limits. August opened at 6.90, declined to 6.82 and closed at 6.3766.88, with the tone quiet and steady. Whatever weakness the market showed today after the opening was owing to the peraistent selling of a German house, which last season was one of the leaders on the bear side. The crop accounts from the south continue so unsatisfactory that we cannot but regard cotton at present prices as a cheap and tempting investment.

Dry Goods.

From The Wall Street Journal.

There is no appreciable amount of business in progress, both the jobbing and primary markets being under the influence of tomorrow's holiday. New lines of fall merchandise will be opened next week, and in the meantime buyers are examining samples. Prices have recovered from the irregular basis of last week. Woolen, worsted and silk dress goods will be shown fully a month earlier than last season, and from all accounts the outlook for an expansion in the volume of trade is as good as it was several weeks ago. As prices are announced they show the influence which the advance in staple cotton has exercised over all lines. In several instances new lines opened show advances of from 2½ to 5 per cent over last year's values. The tendency for a higher range in all lines is very strong.

Print Cloths. Print Cloths.

Fall River Special—The market is at a standstill. Buyers are bidding 2 13-16c less 1 per cent, but sellers refuse to consider anything under 2%c. Recent heavy rains throughout the New England states have furnished sufficient water to operate water power plants during the summer.

The Hamilton Manufacturing Company of Lowell, Mass., has declared a dividend of $20 per share, payable on the 10th instant.

Sun's Cotton Review.

New York, July 5.—Cotton fell 607 points, recovered 5 points of this and then receded and closed quiet and steady at a net decline of 7 points, with sales of 120,800 bales. New Orleans declined 407 points. Liverpool declined 3234, with sales of 8,500; rutures decclined 3234, points, closing quiet. The Manchester dispatch to the cotton exchange reported yarns weak and cloths quiet. The Bombay recepts for the week were 15,000, against 25,000. Spot cotton here was 1-16c lower; sales 572 for spinning.

Today's Features—Depression was caused by a decline in Liverpool and heavy selling, supposed to be for New Orleans account. Some of the crop news was favorable, and there was more or less liquidation for local and southern account and some hammering by the bears. On the other hand, the visible supply is decreasin gpretty rapidly. English spinners have large contracts on hand and only a moderate supply of raw cotton. Some of the Manchester advices indicate a firmer market there. Excessive rains continue in Mississippl, Alabama, Tennessee and Arkansas. The government report of Wednesday expressed the opinion that there had been too much rain in Mississippl, Alabama and parts of Arkansas. Some private advices in the state is having its natural effect in a superarundance of stalk and indications of a light fruitage. Liverpool was buying here today, and so were some of the local shorts. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

The Scalpers Saved the Board from a Dead Session.

Chicago, July 5.-It was just such a day in wheat as invariably succeeds a holiday of such a national character as the 4th of July. Traders had not yet settled down to business methods, and the outside was not yet recovered from the festivities of yesterday. The ever alert scalper was on hand, though, and had it not been for him it would indeed have been a dead session. Frices were firm early, the Missouri report giving an improvement of 14 points in the condition of winter wheat in that state during the past month took away all the strength, however, and prices fell away about a cent. The local crowd oversold themselves in their enthusiasm, and in endeavoring to cover sent values up again to very near the top. A wave of weakness came over all the markets near the close, and wheat suffered like everything else, the inside quotations for the day being those established. September wheat opened from 71½ to 71½c, sold between 11½672 and 0½670%c, closing at 70½670%c. Cash wheat did not vary much in price from Wednesday, although the close was nominally weak with the futures.

Corn—A good shipping demand was reported for corn and charters for 225,000 barrels were made. This was the main supporting influence of prices, but it was not sufficiently powerful to resist the closing weakness that struck all grains and provisions alike. A moderate scalping trade was all that was done in the speculative branch. The fluctuations and changes of wheat were closely followed. September corn opened from 46½ to 46½c, sold between 46% and 46½645½c, closing at the latter, %c under Wednesday. Cash corn was firm and %c per bushel higher.

Oats—A full trade and slow action to prices were noted in oats. The tone of wheat and corn found reflection in this market, but the changes in prices were not wide. The close September oats were ½c under the final quotations of Wednesday. July. Traders had not yet settled down to business methods, and the outside was Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Leicer. By Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager. Chicago, July 5.—During most of the session the wheat market dragged along with little or no interest. There were certainly enough bad reports from various sections to cause a luillish turn, but in the absence of the one thing needed (good buying) the reports counted for naught, so far as affecting prices were concerned. We can only say regarding the market at present that it is in a stupefied state. News and conditions are bullish and warrant an advance, but holders have generally become discouraged at the seemingly utter impossibility for prices to rise, have sold out and are now waiting for signs of an advance before replacing their wheat. The favorable outlook up in the northwest seems to be the feature on which bears are basing their belief in lower prices, however, allowing for a large crop. Our advices warrant us in thinking conditions are too uncertain to prediot a heavy yield at this time, for during the past few years records show that spring wheat has received considerable injury after this date. Receipts at the winter wheat centers are light compared with a year ago. It may be of interest to know that last year at this time we were still drawing on our supplies from the farmers. This year the withdrawais from that source ceased about the latter part of May, since which date the elevators have diminished the bulk of supplies. Now, however, in view of the fact that the quality of the new crop is running so poor, receivers saying in most instances not better than No. 3, also that there is practically no No. 2 spring here, we are inclined to the belief that elevators are getting hold of all of the No. 2 they possibly can and will deliver none out. Should this prove to be the condition of affairs, it can be readily perceived what effect it will have on the cash market firm and ½ to le higher. The contract market, however, has been in sympathy with wheat. On any further decline it would seem as though oats purchased would show a pr Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Leifer.

QUICK RESPONSE TO MR. INNAN'S CALL

Directors Show Their Confidence by Putting Up the Money.

THE BONDS ARE AS GOOD AS GOLD A Live Meeting of the Exposition Directors Yesterday - Coionel Candler Talks for the Visiting Militia.

No stronger evidence of the abiding faith of the exposition directors in the final success of that enterprise could be asked than was offered yesterday afternoon when, in response to the call of Chairman Inman of the finance committee, they raised $75,000 in less than fifteen minutes.

The spontanelty and enthusiasm with which the directors came forward with open purses to help out the exposition furnishes the very best proof of their belief in its solidity and strength.

The exposition has been run with the very best financial judgment. The very best economy has been used in every department. Even small expenditures have been made with care and judgment. No money has been wasted; not a cent has been thrown away. Still the management has not been niggardly in matters where enterprise and the success of the exposi-tion were involved. The administration of the finances has been in line with the liberal ideas along which the exposition has been cast. An instance of this liberality is furnished in the enormous amounts paid for music during the exposition, four of the finest musical organizations in the United States having been engaged at what would seem ordinarily an extravagant outlay. The management felt, however, that music, and good music, was a necessary feature. It was satisfied only with the best. The best, there-fore, was obtained. But under the wise direction of Chairman Inman the finances of the exposition have been dispensed with a careful hand.

The adjourned meeting of the directors yesterday afternoon was not largely at-tended, but Mr. Inman took occasion to call attention to the fact that the expenses of the exposition before the opening of the gates would require a much larger outlay of cash than is now in sight and that the finance committee wished to em-ploy the credit of the directors, giving exposition bonds as collateral, until the earn-ing period of the exposition was reached. He made a clear and explicit statement of the case, outlining the plan that had been adopted, and said that the members of the finance committee had, most of them, giv-en evidence of their faith in the security of the loan by making advances themselves on precisely the same terms as he proposed to the directors.

He then asked the directors to name the sums which they could advance to the ex-position company, taking bonds as secu-

The response to this call will always be regarded as one of the brightest chapters of the exposition when its history comes to be written. It was enthusiastic, patriotic, ediate. As fast as Secretary Lewis could record the names and amounts, the directors called out the sums they were willing to advance.

Chairman English and Mr. Inman stated that they felt sure that the investment was as safe a one as the directors could make, and the directors evidently felt the same way if their ready response furnishes any indication of their opinion in the maffer. In less than fifteen minutes the full amount of $75,000 was raised.

Mr. Inman made a pleasant little talk, thanking the directors for their responses. He said the committee would feel grateful to the board for its expression of confidence. It was encouraging and for himself he felt absolutely confident that the investment was a perfectly safe one. The result of the first call for funds was exceedingly gratifying to those members of the board and of the management who were present. The management feel that the amount raised will defray nearly all the expenses that the company will incur previous to the opening of the gates and after that time they feel that the success of the exposition will be such as to meet every demand and satisfy all outstanding obligations.

Colonel Candler on Military. ement feel that the amou gest some means of entertaining them while gest some means of entertaining them while they are hefe.

"I have received," said he, "and I have no doubt but that many of you have received numerous letters of inquiry from military officials. Many important companies desire to come here in a body and the suggestion is made that provision be furnished them for tenting out near the exposition grounds. They will be a great drawing card. They will bring a great many friends with them. They do not ask much. All they want is tents—they will take care of themselves. It strikes me as a good suggestion that the exposition company provide an encampment near the grounds, and beginning some time early in October have one regiment a week until the close of the exposition. We should do something the exposition. We should do something to take care of them when they come."

President Collier said a few words on the same line. He said he had received numer-ous inquiries from various sections of the country. Upon his motion it was decided country. to appoint a committee to take the mat-ter under advisement.

The Executive Board. There was a meeting of the executive board after the adjournment of the directors meeting, but nothing of importance beyond routine matters was taken up.

Pittsburg Women Interested.

The Duquesne Ceramic Club are to have a fine display this fall in the woman's building, at the Cotton States and International exposition in Atlanta. Mrs. Gaus, the new president of the club, is making out a list that includes the work of the secretary, Mrs. W. J. Patterson, Miss Robb, the Misses Keenan and Mrs. Cowan. In all there will be about 200 pieces, a great deal of fine miniature work being in the display. Of the last Miss Sallie Keenan has done some beautiful pieces, and the Waverly plates of the same young artist that have received such flattering commendation will be included.

The members of the Art Society will also have an exhibition at the exposition, and among the artists who will send work from that association will be Miss Minnie O'Hara Darlington and Miss Ida Smith. Exposition Directors Raised $75,000 in An Important Meeting of the Chamber The Man Who Knows Just What He of Commerce.

ANNUAL REPORTS OF THE OFFICERS

President Woodson Says That the Organization Will Take a More Aggressive Policy the Coming Year.

officers the Chamber of Commerce held a meeting yesterday morning, and when President Stewart Woodson took his old seat there was a round of applause from the crowd that had gathered to hear the annual reports of officers and transact other important business for the momentous months to follow.

It was a meeting of significance because of the new plans determined upon by the officers and members for the next year. While the organization will lose none of its conservative spirit and will cling to the solid methods which have built it up to one of the strongest bodies in the south. it was unanimously decided that hereafter more aggressive and active tactics would be adopted.

All the interests of the city will be looked after and protected with the same vigilance shown in the past, but all of the officers expressed themselves emphatically as to their purpose to see that nothing obstructed commercial interests:

The first business looked after was the installation of officers. For another term President Woodson was put in and his represident Woodson was put in and his return to office was marked by appreciative applause from those who had assembled. Dr. R. D. Spalding was installed as vice president, Mr. E. P. Chamberlin, second vice president; Governor R. B. Bullock, third vice president, and Messrs. R. J. Lowry, J. G. Oglesby, H. G. Saunders, S. M. Inman, J. W. English and G. W. Scíple as directors. Sciple as directors. The Reports Read.

All of the reports of the retiring officers were read. These showed the body to be in splendid condition. The report of the president told of the increased interest in the organization and called attention to the fact that the members, all of them, were actively co-operating in the work.

On Solid Ground.

The phenomenal financial success of the Chamber of Commerce was shown by the report of the treasurer.

This report showed the receipts and disbursements for the current year to be as

To Appoint the Committees. President Woodsen did not announce the mittees for the ensuing year yesterday. Since his arrival from New York he has been quite busy and this rush has prevented him from naming them.

He is at work on them now and will be prepared in a few days to announce them. All of the departments and branches of commerce in the city will be represented in these committees.

What President Woodson Says. President Woodson is very much enuraged over the outlook for the Chamber

"We are a kind of conservative and quiet set," he said yesterday afternoon, "and never do things with a sounding of trumpets and blowing of horns. Steadily, quietly and consistently, we try to look after the business affairs of Atlanta. We are a set of business men to protect business interests.

"Our committees are constantly at work looking after the various lines of trade and watching out for anything that might serve to obstruct them or in any way in jure them.

"What plans have we for the exposition? Well, of course we are not social in our aims. We go at things from a business standpoint, but in every thing that pertains to the exposition we will that pertains to the exposition we will heartly join. Most of our officers are members of the exposition board and natur-ally are interested in the progress of the enterprise and everything that relates to President Woodson will be ready to name his committees in a few days.

The man who knows just what is necessary for health and comfort in hot weather is around once more. He talks to us in the street and he writes to us in the newspapers. He admonishes us as to food, drink and clothing. He means well, but he is rather tedious.

We know as well as he that summer is a trying time, even for robust people. Never do we stand more in need of some agency to build up and to maintain the whole system in a working state; to tohe the stomach so that food is promptly and perfectly digested, and to soothe the exerted nerves.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey fits the situation exactly. It is immediately refreshing and it corrects the feeling of heaviness in the stomach which sometimes follows a free Indulgence in the fruits and vegetables that seem to be wholesome enough, but contain dangerous germs.

For the languor and depression following even moderate labor in the summer there's nothing to compare with a stimulant of high medicinal enablities, and that is just what Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is.

WANTS MUCH SPACE

Massachusetts Will Be Well Represented at the Exposition.

IT WILL BE A CREDITABLE DISPLAY

Mr. Kittredger in the City To Secure Epace the Textile Manufactures of Massachusetts.

The proud old commonwealth of Massa chusetts will be the next door neighbor to Alabama at the exposition. Both will rest in the shadow of the government building. Mr. Henry G. Kittredge, of Boston, secre ary of the Massachusetts commission, and the learned editor of The Textile Record, visited the exposition grounds yesterday in company with Mr. Grant Wilkins, chief of construction. They looked over all the available space suitable for sites and finally located the Massachusetts building on the site adjoining that of the Alabam building. This is just northeast of the government building and the Massachusetts building will be one of a group of state buildings. Mr. Kittredge expressed himself as pleased with the location and greatly gratified at the outlook for the exposition. He will spend today at the grounds and will leave tomorrow for Boston,

The $25,000 that her legislature has just appropriated will bring a most creditable display of her resources. Massachusetts is probably the greatest center of textile manufacture in the union and the exhibit at the exposition will be one of unusual interest to the cotton men. Her manufacturers are already busily making arrangements and securing space. The state, too, will, in all probability, have a separate building in which her excellent system of public schools, her well-equipped sanitary department, and the manner in which she controls her criminals will be demonstrated.

Mr. Kittredge is a delightful gentleman and has the interest of his state at heart. He is very enthusiastic and states that Massachusetts will play quite a prominent part in making the exposition a success. His special errand to Atlanta was to se-cure space for the exhibits and obtain all necessary information to enable him to place the matter intelligently to the manu-facturers of his state. As editor of The Böston Textile Record he has accomplished a great deal for the south, and of recent years has done much toward developing her vast water powers. A short time ago he had a diagram of the water power of South Carolina made. Every stream that would turn 10,000 spindles was listed and located, and when his paper printed this map and published the information he had obtained in this direction, the eye of the entire manufacturing world was attract ed. Mr. Kittredge is now co-operating with Mr. Yeates in perfecting a map of the Georgia streams which will be used in a special ssue of his paper. This publication will do Georgia great good and will largely assist in developing her resources. The chart will be completed shortly and will show the power of all the streams of the state.

"I am in a position to say," said Mr. Kittredge last night, "that my state will make a creditable display at your exposition. Our legislature made an appropriation of $25,000 last month and this amount wisely used will get quite a nice exhibit together. The time is short, I realize, but I am sure that all arrangements will be made and the display placed in position by the 18th of

"Our manufacturers of textile making machinery are interested and they will have their latest improved machines on hand. There is but one question now that has not been settled, and that is whether or not we can secure the space we desire. I am a little afraid we will be somewhat crowded, as I have been informed that most all of the space has been assigned. If we can but obtain the space necessary the exhibit will be a success. "Our board will actively push the exposi-tion in the state and have already placed advertisements in all the leading papers of Massachusetts. There are two lady members on the board, and to them has been given $1,000 which will be applied toward securing a display of colonial relics. These ladies are enthusiastic and I am confident will secure an elegant assortment, lendid exhibit at tl world's fair of our public school system, and I hope to be able to have this same exhibit here this fall. It consists of maps and charts and other practical demonstra-tions of the system, and as they are already packed up, they could be shipped at once.

"I am anxious also to have a display of our sanitary department made. We have a wonderful process for purifying water, which would be of untold value to cotton mill men in dyeing textile goods. I will return to Boston carrying with me the best turn to Boston carrying with me the best impressions of the big show and will place the exposition before our manufacturers. I hope to bring back with me a wonderful display of what'we have accomplished in past years."

Mr. Kittredge will call upon President Collier this morning, when he will make appli-cation for space in the woman's building, the manufactures building and machinery hall. He will make all arrangements before he leaves and will be in the city several
